Handbook of Intercultural Training Dan Landis, Richard W. Brislin, 2013-10-22 Handbook of Intercultural Training Volume II Issues in Training Methodology is a major attempt to describe critique and summarize the major known ways to provide cross cultural training The collection of essays discusses the stresses of intercultural encounter as well as how to reduce these This volume is divided in two parts The first part discusses context factors including stress factors in intercultural relations and aspects of organization effectiveness A cross cultural experience from the perspective of a program manager is presented as well as a situational analysis and designing a translator based training program where alternative designs are forwarded for trainers to use effectively in multicultural and multilingual environments The second part presents different methods of training Learning from sojourners and from individuals from various cultures results in different frameworks for interpreting cross cultural interactions Consultants advisors and experts may find themselves performing outside and beyond their home ground and social groups so training programs pertaining to their particular situation need to be addressed more profoundly The training program in race relations by the U S Department of Defense is reviewed and the effects of stereotyping people are discussed and considered as other factors in the preparation of training programs English is then examined as a tool for intercultural communication where aspects of intercultural training should be integrated This book is suitable for overseas workers foreign students foreign technical advisers diplomats immigrants and many others who are going to live and work and be exposed to other cultures Black Families in Corporate America Susan D. Toliver, 1998-03-09 What progress have African Americans made in corporate America This book examines the evidence by drawing on studies of almost 200 black corporate managers and their families A past president of the New York State Council on Family Relations author Susan D Toliver shows that black families have progressed in corporate America but the inroads are uneven Toliver takes a penetrating look at how the cultural identity of black families has been influenced by their participation in corporate America She also suggests that corporations deepen their commitment to cultural diversity not in name only but work to emphasize the talents and develop the strengths of the African American community Black Families in Corporate America explores the following areas Shifting gender dynamics within the families of black managers Changes in approaches to parenting Issues of racial identity within corporations and the professional black community Black Families in Corporate America will appeal to scholars in ethnic studies multicultural counseling family theory sociology social work personnel management organizational development and cross cultural psychology Women's Health, Politics, and Power Elizabeth Fee, Nancy Krieger, 2020-11-25 This collection of essays addresses the broadening array of issues on the agenda of the women's health movements of the 1980s and 1990s just as a previous collection Women and Health The Politics of Sex in Medicine gathered contributions from the earlier wave of the women's health movement in the 1970s The papers in both volumes are selected from the International Journal of Health Services edited by Vicente Navarro The essays in this volume were originally published in the 1980s and early 1990s Together they present a framework for understanding the struggles over women's health that have occurred in this time period and provide specific analyses of women's health in relation to race ethnicity and class the work of health care the health of women workers international reproductive health sexuality AIDS and public health policy Psychology at Work in Asia Anila Kamal, Jas Laile Suzana Binti Jaafar, 2013-02-21 This book provides important information about the development of psychology as a discipline in Asia Several research papers related to organizational psychology and the influence of psychology on quality of life in countries throughout Asia are included The papers which appear herein were originally presented at the 3rd Convention of the Asian Psychological Association in Darwin Australia during July 2010 the 4th Convention of the Asian Psychological Association in Jakarta Indonesia during July 2012 and the International Conference on Industrial and Organizational Psychology at the National Institute of Psychology in Islamabad Pakistan during April 2012 The information presented here provides a valuable window into how psychology is taught and practiced throughout Asia especially in the work place Indigenous trends in research theory and application are provided by authors who are native to live and teach in the countries represented in the studies reported here It is a must read not only for those in academic psychology and higher education but also for those in business who are affected by changes in globalization of business practices Psychologists counselors educators and those with research interests in social sciences and cross cultural research will find a wealth of current information The Resilient Voter Shauna Reilly, Stacy G. Ulbig, 2018-02-19 The Resilient Voter Stressful Polling Places and Voting Behavior provides a new perspective on the role voting barriers play demonstrating that they not only discourage participation but also affect the quality of votes cast Offering an interesting and unique approach to the study of voting barriers Shauna Reilly and Stacy G Ulbig investigate the possibility that complicated ballot language provisional voting and long polling place lines cause some voters to cast ballots in a manner contradictory to their preferences Building on arguments that stressful polling place conditions subject citizens to stress that can prevent them from casting complete ballots or even choosing to vote at all the authors ask whether those who endure polling place frustrations and persevere to cast a ballot might become so stressed by their experience that they are unable to mark their ballots in a manner consistent with their standing policy preferences Using a creative experimental design the authors examine the ways in which complex ballot language registration difficulties and long polling place lines affect voters stress levels and how such anxieties translate into the willingness to cast a complete ballot and the ability to vote in a manner conforming to previously expressed preferences The authors demonstrate that even though most voters prove remarkably resilient in the face of some potentially stressful polling place barriers they are not immune to all polling place conditions Further they illustrate that some segments of the electorate tend to be more vulnerable to polling place stressors than others and illustrate the ways in which the compound effects of multiple barriers can exert an even wider impact Human Factors in Automated and Robotic Space Systems: Proceedings of a Symposium ,1987-01-01

Psychobiology of Stress Stefano Puglisi-Allegra,A. Oliverio,2012-12-06 From a historical point of view the first studies on the response of the organism to stressful situations in general and on the psychobiology of stress in particular are probably those of Cannon and de la Paz the physiologists who showed in 1911 that the adrenal medulla and the sympathetic system are involved in emergency situations Cannon noted that the venous blood of cats frightened by barking dogs contained adrenaline a response of the organism which was prevented by adrenalectomy or by section of the splanchnic nerve innervating the adrenal medulla Cannon suggested that the adrenal medulla was acting in concert with the sympathetic nervous system so that both systems were activated during stress The role of the sympathetic system in response to stressful events was later emphasized by the experiments carried out by Maickel et al 1967 and by Mason 1968 these authors clearly showed that stressors activate the sympathetic system causing it to release adrenaline and noradrenaline This line of research may be contrasted with that carried out by Hans Selye centered on of the adrenal cortex in the stress response Selye s findings and theories originated the role the so called hypothalamic pituitary adrenal cortex HPA model of stress in short during stress adrenocorticotrophic hormone is released from cells of the anterior pituitary and elicits secretion of glucocorticoids from the adrenal cortex Stress And Emotion Charles D. Spielberger,Irwin G. Sarason,Zsuzsanna Kulcsar,Guus L. Van Heck,2015-10-23 This volume based on an international conference on current research in Stress And Emotion Covers In Four Sections Theoretical Aspects perception cognition and emotion the physiological and biological Concomitants Of Emotion And Type A Behaviour And Emotion Healthy Cities Namir Khan,Willem H. Vanderburg,2001 Modern cities can be designed to constitute a more supportive environment for a great many activities provide a more livable habitat and reduce the burden imposed on the biosphere They can be made healthier in terms of the definition by World Health Organization and more sustainable by means of new and emerging preventive approaches Healthy Cities focuses on those preventive approaches that can make cities healthier and more sustainable This book as well as the two companion volumes Sustainable Energy and Sustainable Production is the result of a twelve year research project carried out at the Center for Technology and Social Development at the University of Toronto The research findings led to the development of a new conceptual framework and strategy aimed at converting technological and economic growth into development that would gradually become more sustainable
