Thomas, 2016-11-11 In recent decades works of the gentry have revolutionized our understanding of late medieval and early modern England In Vassals Heiresses Crusaders and Thugs Hugh M Thomas takes the study of the gentry back to the period 1154-1216 His conclusions not only reveal remarkable similarities between the gentry of various periods but also shed light on the massive changes that transformed England in the Angevin Period

The Commercialisation of English Society,

1000-1500 R. H. Britnell, 1996 The commercialisation of English society offers a major new interpretation of social and economic change in England over five centuries By 1500 English livelihoods depended more upon money and commercial transactions than ever before the institutional framework of markets had been transformed and urban development was more pronounced These changes were not however caused by any unilinear development of population output or money supply This pioneering study examines both institutional and economic transformation and the social changes that resulted and stresses the limited importance of formal trading institutions for the development of local trade Commercial transition is throughout analysed from a broader perspective that looks at the changing power relations within medieval society which might loosely be described as feudal and considers how these relations were affected by such commercial development

The Aristocracy in England and Tuscany,
1000-1250 Peter R. Coss, 2020 This volume examines the aristocracy in Tuscany and in England in the years 1000 1250 offering a new way of studying English aristocracy in this period by tracing Italian aristocratic history and then employing the same historiographic tools within English history
