Faith to Follow Kate Meadows, 2020-11-24 While her husband pursued a four year Master of Divinity degree from Concordia Seminary in St Louis Kate Meadows wondered how she fit into the process of her husband becoming a pastor In the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod only men can be ordained as pastors The men who come to the seminary have a well paved road ahead of them The women who come with those men don't As women we ask ourselves Who am I in this process and Where do I fit Kate never envisioned herself as a pastor's wife in fact she wasn't sure she wanted to be one Yet if God was leading her husband into the ministry who was she to say No And what was it about that term pastor's wife that made her uneasy anyway What did it even mean to be a pastor's wife in the modern day At the seminary Kate started talking to other women who had faithfully followed their husbands on the path to ministry Through a series of more than fifty interviews she learned that the journey of becoming a pastor's wife is rich with questions, discovery and joy. Faith to Follow chronicles the woman's experience of preparing to become a pastor's wife. It also may be a springboard for dialogue within churches across America about the importance of encouraging and cultivating future church leaders and raising up strong families in the Christian faith. The New Jewish Canon is both text and textbook of the Jewish intellectual and communal zeitgeist for the contemporary period and the recent past, canonizing our most important ideas and debates of the past two generations and just as importantly stimulating debate and scholarship about what is yet to come. The Hamlet Fire Bryant Simon, 2020-07-23 For decades the small quiet town of Hamlet, North Carolina thrived thanks to the railroad. But by the 1970s it had become a postindustrial backwater, a magnet for businesses in search of cheap labor and almost no oversight. Imperial Food Products was one of those businesses. The company set up shop in Hamlet in the 1980s. Workers who complained about low pay and hazardous working conditions at the plant were silenced or fired. But jobs were scarce in town so workers kept coming back and the company continued to operate with impunity. Then on the morning of September 3, 1991, the never-inspected chicken processing plant, a stone's throw from Hamlet's city hall, burst into flames. Twenty-five people perished that day behind the plant's locked and bolted doors. It remains one of the deadliest accidents ever in the history of the modern American food industry. Eighty years after the Triangle Shirtwaist Fire, industrial disasters were supposed to have been a thing of the past in the United States. However, as award-winning historian Bryant Simon shows, the pursuit of cheap food merged with economic decline in small towns across the South and the nation to devalue laborers and create perilous working conditions. The Hamlet fire and its aftermath reveal the social costs of antiunionism, lax regulations and ongoing racial discrimination. Using oral histories, contemporary news coverage and state records, Simon has constructed a vivid, potent and disturbing social autopsy of this town, this factory and this time that exposes how cheap labor, cheap government and cheap food came together in a way that was destined to result in tragedy. The History of Women's Mosques in Chinese Islam Maria Jaschok, Shui Jingjun Shui, 2013-10-11 This is a study of Chinese Hui Muslim women's historic and unrelenting spiritual, educational, political and gendered drive for an institutional presence in Islamic worship and leadership, a mosque of one's own as a unique feature of Chinese Muslim culture.
