Moral Development in a Global World Lene Arnett Jensen, 2015-04-02 This book presents international research findings showing that humans share moral concepts but following development different cultures become increasingly morally diverse Piaget, Evolution, and Development Jonas Langer, Melanie Killen, 1998-06 This volume brings the current interest in primate cognition to bear on studies of cognitive development in humans with chapters from leading researchers in both areas For cognitive developmentalists and primatologists and comparative psychologists Dangerous Adolescents, Model Adolescents Roger J.R. Levesque, 2005-12-27 Teachers make a difference As someone who grew up in one of the poorest and rural areas of a poor state and ended up attending elite graduate and professional schools I have much to credit my public school teachers My teachers sure struggled much to teach an amazingly wide variety of students from different backgrounds abilities and hopes Given that reality which undoubtedly repeats itself across the United States and globe one would think that I should be quite hesitant to criticize a system that produces countless grateful students and productive citizens I agree The pages that follow surely can be perceived as yet another attack on already much maligned schools that do produce impressive outcomes despite their limited resources increased obligations and the sustained barrage of attacks from competing interest groups Some may even view the text as an affront to the inalienable rights of parents to raise their children as they see fit Others surely could understand the analysis as another assault on our decentralized legal and school systems that should retain the right to balance the needs of communities parents schools and students I clearly did not intend and do not see the ultimate result as yet another diatribe on the manner teachers parents and communities treat students The Evolution of a Vow Judith Schaefer, 2009 For centuries the vow of obedience has been at the heart of religious life With the renewal efforts of Vatican II the vow has been dramatically restructured but not theologically reenvisioned The Evolution of a Vow Obedience as Decision Making in Communion addresses the changes in the vow and proposes a renewed theology that supports the living out of obedience in the twenty first century Obedience in communion as a theological proposal invites vowed religious to create a pattern of limitless listening that everywhere seeks the call of God to communion Against the horizon of communion obedience becomes the singular thread of grace by which vowed religious become who they are called to be

Adolescent Rationality and Development David Moshman, 2004-12-13 The huge and fractured literature on adolescence challenges both students and scholars For students there is too much to learn and too little coherence across topics to enable deeper understanding For scholars there are few integrative visions to connect minitheories research programs and practical concerns In the first edition of this advanced text Moshman provided a constructivist synthesis of the literatures of cognitive moral and identity development from the classic universalist theories of Piaget Kohlberg and Erikson through the more pluralist research and theorizing of the late 20th century Without assuming any prior knowledge of psychology he introduced and coordinated basic concepts to enable students to wrestle with the questions of concern to experts and help experts see those concerns from a larger perspective In this thoroughly updated second edition Moshman develops his conceptualization of advanced psychological development in adolescence and early adulthood and proposes in a new chapter a conception of rational moral identity as a developmental ideal Unlike the prototypical changes of early childhood advanced psychological development cannot be understood as progress through universal stages to a universally achieved state of maturity Progress is possible however through rational processes of reflection coordination and social interaction

Mature Unwed Mothers Ruth Linn, 2011-06-28 I have often wondered if the opposition to women's choosing to abort a pregnancy masks a fear of women choosing to have and raise children on their own When a woman separates motherhood from marriage she claims a freedom in the realm of intimate relationships that may be as fundamental as Freedom of Conscience or Freedom of Association Yet we do not usually think about women's decisions concerning motherhood in these terms In a pair of remarkable studies begun in the 1980s Ruth Linn pregnant at the time and married to a medical officer in the Israeli army took the study of moral psychology into two highly controversial arenas of moral action Israeli soldiers who refused to serve in Lebanon and single women who refused to remain childless While conscientious objection to war has long been recognized as an act of moral resistance and courage women who question societal norms and values linking motherhood with marriage are typically dismissed as bad women Rather than approaching these questions in the abstract Linn chose to interview women who made the decision to have and raise children on their own What she found was that in the course of making this decision women came to see themselves as moral resisters In freeing their childbearing capability from men's control they were also freeing their capacity to love The very title of this book Mature Unwed Mothers calls us to think about what we mean by maturity on the part of mothers
