

A person stands on a glowing path that leads towards a bright, multi-pointed starburst light in the center of the frame. The background is dark and filled with faint, distant stars, creating a sense of vastness and journey. The path is illuminated by a bright light source, possibly the starburst itself, creating a strong contrast with the dark surroundings.

Morality Maze What Is Right And Why R41010:

Through the Moral Maze Robert Kane, 2017-07-12 On the issue of our pluralistic age whether we can continue to believe in absolute value Robert Kane has written the most helpful discussion I know It is clear cogent and above all convincing Huston Smith author of The World's Religions Out of the Moral Maze Josh McDowell, 1995-06-01 Josh McDowell provides sound moral guidance based on God's Word for the truth seeking college student who desires to find a better way than the moral bankruptcy of the college environment Morality Maze Neil M. Why and Because Lawrence Sheraton, 2017-07-04 Do you know right from wrong Most people are confident they can tell right from wrong We make ethical judgments instantly for simple matters and require little deliberation for more complex issues Some people are so confident they are right and others are wrong that they are willing to die to defend their positions or kill others who disagree with them or their group Adults tell kids what is right and wrong every day but how do they know If you are making an assertion of right or wrong how can you be certain that you are right The fundamental question that ethics deals with is how do you know you are right Few people stop and think about that question Fewer still have a good answer Why and Because provides a method for deriving ethical truth independent of time or culture It explores some of the main reasons why agreement on moral matters appears to be so elusive An afternoon with this book will help you to convince others why you are right once you convince yourself
