More Grounds for Gestalt Yaro Starak, Anne Maclean, Anna Bernet, 1996 Gestalt Therapy Around the World Eleanor O'Leary, 2013-04-01 The first internationally focused book on gestalt therapy to provide a comprehensive overview of current practice around the world Features coverage of the history training theoretical contributions and research initiatives relating to gestalt therapy in seventeen countries Points to future directions and challenges Includes extensive information on worldwide gestalt associations institutes and professional societies that promote the development of the approach ,

The Whorf Theory Complex Penny Lee, 1996 At last a comprehensive account of the ideas of Benjamin Lee Whorf which not only explains the nature and logic of the linguistic relativity principle but also situates it within a larger theory complex delineated in fascinating detail Whorf's almost unknown unpublished writings as well as his published papers are drawn on to show how twelve elements of theory interweave in a sophisticated account of relations between language mind and experience The role of language in cognition is revealed as a central concern some of his insights having interesting affinity with modern connectionism Whorf's gestaltic isolates of experience and meaning crucial to understanding his reasoning about linguistic relativity are explained A little known report written for the Yale anthropology department is used extensively and published for the first time as an appendix With the Whorf centenary in 1997 this book provides a timely challenge to those who take pleasure in debunking his ideas without bothering to explore their subtlety or even reading them in their original form

Fine Art and Perceptual Neuroscience Paul Hackett, 2014-01-10 Over the past decade the integration of psychology and fine art has sparked growing academic interest among researchers of these disciplines The author both a psychologist and artist offers up a unique merger and perspective of these fields Through the production of fine art which is directly informed by neuroscientific and optical processes this volume aims to fill a gap in the literature and understanding of the creation and perception of the grid image created as a work of art The grid image is employed for reasons discussed in the text to illustrate more general processes associated with the integration of vision visual distortion and painting Existing at the intersection of perceptual neuroscience psychology fine art and art history this volume concerns the act of painting and the process of looking More specifically the book examines vision and the effects of visual impairment and how these can be interpreted through painting within a theoretical framework of visual neuroscience

Playing by Ear and the Tip of the Tongue Reuven Tsur, 2012 In our everyday life we are flooded by a pandemonium of information which consciousness organizes into more easily manageable phonetic and semantic categories In poetry reading however the total effect of a poem is not only obtained by some of these categories but also by precatatorial information for which there is a growing body of empirical evidence of its psychological reality In the Tip of the Tongue phenomenon a great amount of diffuse precatatorial information is present but fails to grow together into a compact word generating a feeling of some dense undifferentiated mass Poetic language typically exploits such precatatorial information for its effects By way of theoretical considerations and close readings this book explores the semantic and phonetic strategies by which a text may increase or decrease the impact of such information It investigates the conditions that boost or inhibit overtone fusion in rhyme and alliteration By seeking empirical evidence for the claims he makes in different fields such as music art literature linguistics experiments in the speech laboratory the author provides ample and sound examples ambiguity intended in an almost conversational tone which makes us really anticipate reading each new chapter

The Philosopher's Gaze David Michael Levin, 2023-04-28 David Michael Levin's ongoing exploration of the moral character and enlightenment potential of vision takes a new direction in The Philosopher's Gaze Levin examines texts by Descartes Husserl Wittgenstein Nietzsche Heidegger Benjamin Merleau Ponty and Levinas using our culturally dominant mode of perception and the philosophical discourse it has generated as the site for his critical reflections on the moral culture in which we are living In Levin's view all these philosophers attempted to understand one way or another the distinctive pathologies of the modern age But every one also attempted to envision if only through the faintest of traces traces of mutual recognition traces of another way of looking and seeing the prospects for a radically different lifeworld The world after all inevitably reflects back to us the character the reach and range of our vision In these provocative essays the author draws on the language of hermeneutical phenomenology and at the same time refines phenomenology itself as a method of working with our experience and thinking critically about the culture in which we live This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1999 David Michael Levin's ongoing exploration of the moral character and enlightenment potential of vision takes a new direction in The Philosopher's Gaze Levin examines texts by Descartes Husserl Wittgenstein Nietzsche Heidegger Benjamin Merleau

Realizing Reason Danielle Macbeth, 2014-03-27 Realizing Reason pursues three interrelated themes First it traces the essential moments in the historical unfolding from the ancient Greeks through Descartes Kant and developments in the nineteenth century to the present that culminates in the realization of pure reason as a power of knowing Second it provides a cogent account of mathematical practice as a mode of inquiry into objective truth And finally it develops and defends a new conception of our being in the world one that builds on and transforms the now standard conception according to which our experience of reality arises out of brain activity due in part to merely causal impacts on our sense organs Danielle Macbeth shows that to achieve an adequate understanding of the striving for truth in the exact sciences we must overcome this standard conception and that the way to do that is through a more adequate understanding of the nature of mathematical practice and the profound transformations it has undergone over the course of its history the history through which reason is first realized as a power of knowing Because we can understand mathematical practice only if we attend to the systems of written signs within which to do mathematics Macbeth provides an account of the nature and role of written notations specifically of the principal systems that have been developed within which to reason in mathematics Euclidean diagrams the symbolic language of arithmetic and algebra and Frege's concept script Begriffsschrift

How Maps Work Alan M. MacEachren, 2004-06-21 Now available in paperback for the first time this classic work presents a cognitive semiotic framework for understanding how maps work as powerful abstract and synthetic spatial representations Explored are the ways in which the many representational choices inherent in mapping interact with information processing and knowledge construction and how the resulting insights can be used to make informed symbolization and design decisions A new preface to the paperback edition situates the book within the context of contemporary technologies As the nature of maps continues to evolve Alan MacEachren emphasizes the ongoing need to think systematically about the ways people interact with and use spatial information
