Edward J. O'Brien, 2016-09-09 I was talking the other day to Alfred Coppard who has steered more successfully than most English story writers away from the Scylla and Charybdis of the modern artist He told me that he had been reading several new novels and volumes of short stories by contemporary American writers with that awakened interest in the civilization we are framing which is so noticeable among English writers during the past three years He asked me a remarkable question and the answer which I gave him suggested certain contrasts which seemed to me of basic importance for us all He said I have been reading books by Sherwood Anderson Waldo Frank and Ben Hecht and Konrad Bercovici and Joseph Hergesheimer and I can see that they are important books but I feel that the essential point to which all this newly awakened literary consciousness is tending has somehow subtly eluded me American and English writers both use the same language and so do Scotch and Irish writers but I am not puzzled when I read Scotch and Irish books as I am when I read these new American books Why is it Famous Irish Men and Women Sean Sheehan, 2008-03 The titles in this series focus on important events in Irish history and on exploring Ireland's geography The questions posed are designed to develop children s historical skills by asking them to question how information can be interpreted in different ways and why historians may disagree The engaging and informative text is divided into easily digestible paragraphs with key words highlighted Questions ask the reader to search for visual clues and identify differences and similarities between different periods Photographs maps and diagrams are provided along with suggested activities for individuals groups and classes a full glossary and index and first comprehensive study of the neglected Irish writers of the Victorian age whose work was highly popular with the British reading audience and therefore disparaged and largely forgotten from the era of W B Yeats and the Irish Literary Revival with its culturally nationalist agenda onwards It is based on a reading of around 370 novels by 150 authors including William Carleton the peasant novelist who wielded much influence and Charles Lever whose serious work was destroyed by the slur of rollicking as well as Joseph Sheridan LeFanu George Moore Emily Lawless Somerville and Ross Bram Stoker and three of the leading authors from the new woman movement Sarah Grand Iota and George Egerton James H Murphy examines their writing in a variety of contexts the political economic and cultural developments of the time the vicissitudes of the reading audience the realities of a publishing industry that was for the most part London based the often difficult circumstances of the lives of the novelists and the ever changing genre of the novel itself to which Irish authors often made a contribution Politics history religion gender and particularly land over which nineteenth century Ireland was deeply divided featured as key themes for fiction Finally the book engages with the critical debate of recent times concerning the supposed failure of realism in the nineteenth century Irish novel looking for deeper causes than have hitherto been offered and discovering occasions on which realism turned out to be possible
