Chabin, 2011-08-19 T00:00:00-04:00 Le présent volume reprend quatre titres parus dans la collection Atout policier Ces

histoires mettent en scène deux personnages principaux Zach et Brnice qui devraient être aussi étrangers l'un à l'autre que le jour et la nuit Zach adolescent sombre et peu sociable est toujours perdu dans un songe dont les racines plongent davantage dans l'univers des livres qu'il découvre que dans la réalité Isol dans un monde qui n'est pas le sien il se retrouve frémment impliqué dans des affaires sordides ou douteuses auxquelles il est pourtant complètement étranger Brnice au contraire est une jeune fille bien sous tous rapports tudiante appliquée de bonne famille n'ayant pas de mauvaises fréquentations elle ne devrait même pas remarquer ce garçon qui vit sur une autre planète Pourtant ces quatre récits les entraîneront dans des aventures où leurs destins seront troitement liés d'abord dans Piège conviction où Zach est suspect d'un meurtre puis dans Zone d'ombre où nul ne sait qui a fait quoi Le côté sombre et terrifiant de la vie n'est cependant pas absent de la vie de Brnice comme en témoigne le dernier récit de cette collection Secrets de famille dans lequel Zach ne fait qu'une très brève apparition Le lecteur retrouvera galement dans L'écrit qui tue l'crivain Louis Ferdine et le docteur Hunter qui hantent le volume précédent dans la même collection Silence on tue

The Feminist Encyclopedia of French Literature Eva M. Sartori, 1999-07-30 The earliest known literary productions by women living in Europe were probably written by French writers As early as the 12th century women troubadours in the south of France were writing poems French women continued writing through the ages their number increasing as education became more available to women of all classes And yet of the great number of works by women writers who preceded the current feminist movement very few have survived A few writers such as Marie de France George Sand and Simone de Beauvoir became part of the canon But critics mostly male had judged the works of only a few women writers worthy of recognition As part of the feminist move to reclaim women writers and to rethink literary history scholars in French literature began to take a new look at women writers who had been popular during their lifetimes but who had not been admitted into the canon This reference book provides extensive information about French women writers and the world in which they lived Included are several hundred alphabetically arranged entries for authors literary genres such as the novel poetry and the short story literary movements such as classicism realism and surrealism life cycle events particular to women such as menstruation and menopause events and institutions which affected women differently than men such as revolutions wars and laws on marriage divorce and education The volume spans French literature from the Middle Ages to the present and covers those writers who lived and worked mainly in France The entries are written by expert contributors and each includes bibliographical information The entries focus on each writer's awareness of how her gender shaped her outlook and opportunities on how categorizations structures and terms used to describe literary works have been defined for women and the ways in which women writers have responded to these definitions The volume begins with a feminist history of French literature and concludes with a selected general bibliography and a chronology of women writers

The Selected Works of George Sand George Sand, The correspondence of George Sand and Gustave Flaubert if approached merely as a chapter in the biographies of these heroes of nineteenth century letters is sufficiently rewarding. In a relationship extending over twelve years including the trying period of the Franco Prussian War and the Commune these extraordinary personalities disclose the aspects of their diverse natures which are best worth the remembrance of posterity. However her passionate and erratic youth may have captivated our grandfathers George Sand in the mellow autumn of her life is for us at her most attractive phase. The storms and anguish and hazardous adventures that attended the defiant unfolding of her spirit are over. In her final retreat at Nohant surrounded by her affectionate children and grandchildren diligently writing, botanizing, bathing in her little river, visited by her friends and undistracted by the fiery lovers of the old time she shows an unguessed wealth of maternal virtue, swift comprehending sympathy, fortitude, sunny resignation and a goodness of heart that has ripened into wisdom. For Flaubert too, though he was seventeen years her junior, the flamboyance of youth was long since past. In 1862 when the correspondence begins he was firmly settled, a shy, proud, grumpy toiling hermit of forty in his family seat at Croisset, beginning his seven years' labor at L'Education Sentimentale, master of his art, hardening in his convictions and conscious of increasing estrangement from the spirit of his age. He, with his craving for sympathy, and she, with her inexhaustible supply of it, meet; he pours out his bitterness, she her consolation, and so, with equal candor of self-revelation, they beautifully draw out and strengthen each the other's characteristics and help one another grow old. But there is more in these letters than a satisfaction for the biographical appetite which indeed finds its account rather in the earlier chapters of the correspondents' history. What impresses us here is the banquet spread for the reflective and critical faculties in this intercourse of natural antagonists. As M. Faguet observes in a striking paragraph of his study of Flaubert: "It is a curious thing which does honor to them both that Flaubert and George Sand should have become loving friends towards the end of their lives. At the beginning Flaubert might have been looked upon by George Sand as a furious enemy. Emma, Madame Bovary is George Sand's heroine, with all the poetry turned into ridicule. Flaubert seems to say in every page of his work: 'Do you want to know what is the real Valentine, the real Indiana, the real Lelia? Here she is, it is Emma Roualt.' And do you want to know what becomes of a woman whose education has consisted in George Sand's books? Here she is, Emma Roualt. So that the terrible mocker of the bourgeois has written a book which is directly inspired by the spirit of the 1840 bourgeois. Their recriminations against romanticism which rehabilitates and poetises the courtesan against George Sand, the Muse of Adultery, are to be found in acts and facts in Madame Bovary. Now the largest interest of this correspondence depends precisely upon the continuance beneath an affectionate personal relationship of a fundamental antagonism of interests and beliefs resolutely maintained on both sides George Sand with her lifelong passion for propaganda and reformation labors earnestly to bring Flaubert to her point of view to remould him nearer to her heart's desire He with a playful deference to the sex and years of his friend addresses her in his letters as Dear Master Yet in the essentials of the conflict though she never gives over her effort he never budes a jot he has taken his ground and in his last unfinished work Bouvard and Pecuchet he dies stubbornly fortifying his position To the last she speaks from a temperament lyrical sanguine imaginative optimistic and sympathetic he from a temperament dramatic melancholy observing cynical and satirical She insists upon natural goodness he upon innate depravity She urges her faith in social regeneration he vents his splenetic contempt for the mob Through all the successive shocks of disillusioning experience she expects the renovation of humanity by some religious some semi mystical amelioration of its heart he grimly concedes the greater part of humanity to the devil and can see no escape for the remnant save in science and aristocratic organization For her finally the literary art is an instrument of social salvation it is her means of touching the world with her ideals her love her aspiration for him the literary art is the avenue of escape from the meaningless chaos of existence it is his subtly critical condemnation of the world The origins of these unreconciled antipathies lie deep beneath the personal relationship of George Sand and Gustave Flaubert lie deep beneath their successors who with more or less of amenity in their manners are still debating the same questions today The main currents of the nineteenth century with fluent and refluxing tides clash beneath the controversy and as soon as one hears its long withdrawing roar and thinks it is dying away and is become a part of ancient history it begins again and will be heard no doubt by the last man as a solemn accompaniment to his final contention with his last adversary
