

PATHS TO SUCCESS

The background of the entire page is a technical drawing of a suspension bridge. The drawing is in a light green or teal color on a pink background. It shows the bridge's structure from a low angle, looking down the length of the bridge towards the horizon. The main cables of the bridge are prominent, fanning out from the towers and converging towards a central point on the horizon. The deck of the bridge is also visible, with lines indicating the road or walkway. The overall effect is one of depth and perspective.

Coming of Age in a Hardscrabble World Nancy C. Atwood, Roger Atwood, 2019-09-01 Nonfiction storytelling is at its best in this anthology of excerpts from memoirs by thirty authors some eminent some less well known who grew up tough and talented in working class America Their stories selected from literary memoirs published between 1982 and 2014 cover episodes from childhood to young adulthood within a spectrum of life changing experiences Although diverse ethnically racially geographically and in sexual orientation these writers share a youthful precocity and determination to find opportunity where little appeared to exist All of these perspectives are explored within the larger context of economic insecurity a needed perspective in this time of growing inequality These memoirists grew up in families that led hardscrabble lives in which struggle and strenuous effort were the norm Their stories offer insight on the realities of class in America as well as inspiration and hope

The Meritocracy Myth Stephen J. McNamee, Robert K. Miller, 2009-07-16 A third edition of this textbook is now available The Meritocracy Myth challenges the widely held American belief in meritocracy that people get out of the system what they put into it based on individual merit Fully revised and updated throughout the second edition includes compelling new case studies such as the impact of social and cultural capital in the cases of George W Bush and Barack Obama and new material on current topics such as the impact of the financial and credit crisis intergenerational mobility and the impact of racism and sexism The Meritocracy Myth examines talent attitude work ethic and character as elements of merit and evaluates the effect of non merit factors such as social status race heritage and wealth on meritocracy A compelling book on an often overlooked topic the first edition was highly regarded and proved a useful examination of this classic American ideal

Student Achievement William A. Sampson, 2002 Sampson's study of 12 poor Black families in a Chicago suburb focuses on the potential of families to do what generations of reform could not. Should appeal to anyone involved with public policy racial or social issues

Words at Work and Play Shirley Brice Heath, 2012-01-12 A thirty year study tracking the changes in family life and language development in 300 working class families from 1981 onwards

Black and Brown William A. Sampson, 2004 Here author William A. Sampson examines the role of the family in the school preparation process among poor Blacks and Latinos. It is based upon the data collected during intense long term observations of 21 disadvantaged minority students and families in their homes within the same community. The data suggests that the differences in performances are to a large degree a function of differences in the specific ways in which their parents most often the mother prepares them for the educational experience. When discipline responsibility delayed gratification internal control the value of education and high self esteem are emphasized consistently in the home students tend to achieve. When the home environment is quiet structured and orderly the students do well in school. Most importantly when parents help their children with homework the students excel. This book frames the issues of the educational improvement. Lays out the methodology. Presents the data arranged by the academic performance of the students. Presents a detailed analysis of the data and their impact upon both the debate over educational improvement and the theoretical issue of the link between race ethnicity social class and education. Offers comparisons between poor Black families and poor Latino families. Will be of interest to scholars in educational improvement public school teachers administrators policy makers and those concerned with social class and its ramifications

Educational Resilience in inner-city America Margaret C. Wang, Edmund W. Gordon, 2012-10-12 The story of life in inner city America and the education of its people is often recounted as a tragedy the ending is often predictable and usually dire highlighting deficiency failure and negative trends. As with most social problems children and youth in the inner cities are hit hardest. But this dismal view is only half of the full picture. The cities of our nation are a startling juxtaposition between the despairing and the hopeful between disorganization and restorative potential. Alongside the poverty and unemployment the street fights and drug deals are a wealth of cultural economic educational and social resources. Often ignored are the resilience and the ability for adaptation which help many who are seemingly confined by circumstance to struggle and succeed in the face of the odds. This book helps to broaden the utilization of ways to magnify the circumstances known to enhance development and education so that the burden of adversity is reduced and opportunities are advanced for all children and youth especially the children and youth of the inner cities who are in at risk circumstances. The focus is on raising consciousness about the opportunities available to foster resilience among children families and communities and synthesizing the knowledge base that is central to implementing improvements which serve to better the circumstances and educational opportunities of children and families. This volume is intended for a wide audience of readers but particularly those who are in a position to shape public policy and deliver educational and human services
