Plant protection outlook in the Asia-Pacific region Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2022-05-05 One of the world's greatest challenges is to feed a growing human population in an effective, sustainable and environmentally conscious manner. In the Asia-Pacific, agri-food production is greatly impeded by a speciose complex of transboundary pests and pathogens. TPP Integrated pest management (IPM) a sequential decision-making process founded upon agro-ecological principles and aimed at reducing pest-induced losses with minimal if any reliance upon chemical toxins is tailor-made to resolve the impact of TPP. This technical paper draws upon the results of online surveys and systematically maps the layout and inclusiveness of national plant protection programmes. It examines whether IPM is being used optimally used to tackle recent invasions of the fall armyworm (FAW) Spodoptera frugiperda. By juxtaposing countries' FAW programme priorities with their in-house capabilities, this technical paper puts forward several tactical interventions to fill capacity gaps, mobilize technical expertise, redraw IPM legislation and spotlight early-stage biological control successes. As such, this work provides invaluable guidance to future efforts to upscale nature-friendly technologies across the Asia-Pacific. No doubt the net positive monetary, environmental and societal dividends of such approaches will yield enormous returns on future investments. IPM and Biological Control of Plant Pests Jayne T. MacLean, 1992 Cultural Heritage in Asia and the Pacific Margaret G. H.
