Working Women and their Rights in the Workplace Naeima Faraj A.A. Al-Hadad,2016-03-09 This book addresses women s rights to work and motherhood in Libya from a legal and international human rights perspective In an attempt to solve the problem posed by the perception that there is an unsolvable conflict between the right of women to work and their right to motherhood the author considers how these two sets of rights as protected under international human rights law can and should be recognised and promoted within the Libyan legal system Including first hand accounts of experiences of Libyan women the study voices their struggle for their rights as guaranteed by domestic law international conventions and Islam Providing a rare insight into a region striving to find its new identity the author assesses the adequacy of existing Libyan laws and where warranted offers proposals for legislative amendments to Libyan policy makers and its new Parliament at such a crucial time in the nation s history

Women's Education in Developing Countries Elizabeth M. King,M. Anne Hill,1997-07-01 Why do women in most developing countries lag behind men in literacy Why do women get less schooling than men This anthology examines the educational decisions that deprive women of an equal education It assembles the most up to date data organized by region Each paper links the data with other measures of economic and social development This approach helps explain the effects different levels of education have on womens fertility mortality rates life expectancy and income Also described are the effects of women s education on family welfare The authors look at family size and women s labor status and earnings They examine child and maternal health as well as investments in children s education Their investigation demonstrates that women with a better education enjoy greater economic growth and provide a more nurturing family life It suggests that when a country denies women an equal education the nation s welfare suffers Current strategies used to improve schooling for girls and women are examined in detail The authors suggest an ambitious agenda for educating women It seeks to close the gender gap by the next century Published for The World Bank by The Johns Hopkins University Press

Latinas and African American Women at Work Irene Browne,2000-10-12 One of Choice magazine s Outstanding Academic Books of 1999 Accepted wisdom about the opportunities available to African American and Latina women in the U S labor market has changed dramatically Although the 1970s saw these women earning almost as much as their white counterparts in the 1980s their relative wages began falling behind and the job prospects plummeted for those with little education and low skills At the same time African American women more often found themselves the sole support of their families While much social science research has centered on the problems facing black male workers Latinas and African American Women at Work offers a comprehensive investigation into the eroding progress of these women in the U S labor market The prominent sociologists and economists featured in this volume describe how race and gender intersect to especially disadvantage black and Latina women Their inquiries encompass three decades of change for women at all levels of the workforce from those who spend time on the welfare rolls to middle class professionals Among the many possible sources of increased disadvantage they particularly examine the changing demands for skills increasing numbers of immigrants in the job market the precariousness of balancing work and childcare responsibilities and employer discrimination While racial inequity in hiring often results from educational differences between white and minority women this cannot explain the discrimination faced by women with higher skills Minority women therefore face a two tiered hurdle based on race and gender Although the picture for young African American women has grown bleaker overall for Latina women the story is more complex with a range of economic outcomes among Cubans Puerto Ricans Mexicans and Central and South Americans Latinas and African American Women at Work reveals differences in how professional African American and white women view their position in the workforce with black women perceiving more discrimination for both race and gender than whites The volume concludes with essays that synthesize the evidence about racial and gender based obstacles in the labor market Given the current heated controversy over female and minority employment as well as the recent sweeping changes to the national welfare system the need for empirical data to inform the public debate about disadvantaged women is greater than ever before The important findings in Latinas and African American Women at Work substantially advance our understanding of social inequality and the pervasive role of race ethnicity and gender in the economic well being of American women
