Riding the High Wire Robert A. Trennert, 2011-05-18 Riding the High Wire is the first comprehensive history of aerial mine tramways in the American West describing their place in the evolution of mining after 1870 Robert A Trennert shows how the mid nineteenth century development of wire rope manufacturing made it possible for American entrepreneurs such as Andrew S Hallidie and Charles Huson to begin erecting single rope tramways in the 1870s and 1880s Their inventions were followed by the more substantial double rope systems imported from Europe By the turn of the century aerial tramways were common throughout western mining regions hauling everything from gold and silver ore to coal and salt and changing the face of the industry Aerial mine tramways proved to have a special fascination people often rode them for a thrill sometimes with disastrous results They were also very temperamental needed constant attention and were prone to accidents The years between 1900 and 1920 saw the operation of some of the west s most spectacular tramways but the decline in high country mining beginning in the 1920s coupled with the development of more efficient means of transportation made this technology all but obsolete by the end of the Second World War Historians and the general reader will be equally enthralled by Trennert s fascinating story of the rise and fall of aerial mine tramways

adulation as he traversed the rope a full eight times in the course of an hour In Man on Wire Petit recounts the six years he spent preparing for this achievement It is a fitting tribute to those lost but not forgotten symbols of human aspiration the Twin Towers

Riding the Rim Terry L. Forrette, 2010-08-11 Riding the Rim is one man s response to the catastrophic events in New Orleans following Hurricane Katrina The wetlands had been disappearing at an ever increasing rate over fifty years America s demand for oil combined with a mismanaged levee system had finally dealt a mortal blow to the defenses of New Orleans The city lay open to the wrath of a 20 foot wall of tidal surge We could not let this happen again Little was being done It was important that someone step up Someone did The audacious idea was that a guy on a motorcycle traveling 16 500 miles around the perimeter of the United States talking about coastal erosion just might call attention to the issue If this rider was also a trained public speaker with a passion for his message perhaps he could be the catalyst needed to raise awareness in the rest of the country There was no way to predict success There was risk as well as reward The author took the risk and discovered a nation genuinely concerned for New Orleans but with little understanding of the importance of the wetlands to the country s economy and security The wetlands are still endangered but one man stepped up and made his voice heard This is his story While many serve the cause of saving America s WETLAND Terry Forrette takes his show on the road mile by mile enlisting supporters These personal and sincere acts of advocacy are seldom recognized in a time of media hype but they are the backbone of our efforts to show that America cannot not afford to lose coastal Louisiana Valsin A Marmillion Managing Director America s WETLAND Foundation President and Founder Marmillion Company
