In conceiving his architectural masterpiece, the Goetheanum in Dornach, Switzerland, Rudolf Steiner designed a large wooden model featuring three main figures to be placed in a central position in the building. Known as The Representative of Humanity, the sculpture shows Christ in the center, standing and holding a balance between the beings of Lucifer and Ahriman, who represent polar tendencies of expansion and contraction. On New Year's Eve 1922, the Goetheanum was destroyed by fire, but the model, still in the process of being sculpted and housed in an external studio, escaped the flames. It remains intact in the second Goetheanum, where the public may view it. With numerous full color photos and illustrations, this book offers a vivid introduction to this monumental historic artwork. We follow the evolution of the statue through the photographic documentation of many models created during its development, from six smaller versions to a full size model which is also still on display. The authors offer impressive insights into the artist's detailed intentions, which were repeatedly revised by Rudolf Steiner. The book demonstrates the continual spiritual movement evident in the whole series of small models and the metamorphic processes that developed over an eight year period. The Representative of Humanity offers indications about the realm and content from which the statue arose, the environment in which it is situated, and the artists who created it: Rudolf Steiner and the sculptor Edith Maryon. They also examine the intentions behind this work of art, which addresses the destiny of humankind. Rudolf Steiner in Britain Crispian Villeneuve, 2009-09-14. Rudolf Steiner spent some five months of his life in Britain, visiting there ten times between 1902 and 1924. With the exception of German speaking countries, the longest time Steiner spent abroad was in Britain, a place he clearly considered central to his work. In this extraordinary, thorough study of more than 1,200 pages and dozens of illustrations, Crispian Villeneuve documents those important visits, reproducing letters, articles, records, and other archival material, much of it published for the first time. He also studies the interconnected theme of the life and work of D. N. Dunlop, Rudolf Steiner's closest British colleague. Rudolf Steiner Speaks to the British Rudolf Steiner, 2013-11-06. As demonstrated by the contents of this book, Rudolf Steiner was able to speak to the British in a very direct and lively way. He did not need to give a long introductory build up to his main theme, as was expected of him in Germany, for instance, but could refer immediately to esoteric ideas The intention of this volume is to give a fuller picture of Rudolf Steiner's work in Britain and his approach to esoteric ideas while on British soil Although the major lecture series he gave in Britain have been previously published this book gathers together various lectures addresses question and answer sessions minutes of important meetings and articles a good deal of which has been unavailable in English until now It also features a complete list of all the lectures and addresses Steiner gave in Britain making it a valuable reference book for students of Rudolf Steiner's work Living Architecture Kenneth Bayes, 1994 Rudolf Steiner has given us a biography of architecture architecture as a living being from its birth at the beginning of history until today and with indications for the future We see it with its own rhythms and patterns as with a human life In Steiner's cosmology architecture has reached in terms of a human lifespan the age and energy of the early thirties so it is a biography in progress Here is a concise richly illustrated introduction to the architectural ideas of Rudolf Steiner He was an early exponent of what has come to be called organic design in architecture and this little volume clearly shows Steiner's influence on architects and designers around the world The Goetheanum Hagen Biesantz, Arne Klingborg, Åke Fant, 1979 The Imagination of Pentecost Richard Leviton, 1994 Carlo Pietzner speaks out of his own ego directed inner experiences about several motifs inherent to inner striving the problem of self in relationship to the world the disintegration of the three soul forces the transition from sense perception to spiritual perception the reality of evil the condition of loneliness and more Architecture Rudolf Steiner, 2013-04-04 The origins and nature of architecture The formative influence of architectural forms The history of architecture in the light of mankind's spiritual evolution A new architecture as a means of uniting with spiritual forces Art and architecture as manifestations of spiritual realities Metamorphosis in architecture Aspects of a new architecture Rudolf Steiner on the first Goetheanum building The second Goetheanum building The architecture of a community in Dornach The temple is the human being The restoration of the lost temple The Routledge Companion to Biology in Art and Architecture Charissa Terranova, Meredith Tromble, 2016-08-12 The Routledge Companion to Biology in Art and Architecture collects thirty essays from a transdisciplinary array of experts on biology in art and architecture The book presents a diversity of hybrid art and science thinking revealing how science and culture are interwoven The book situates bioart and bioarchitecture within an expanded field of biology in art architecture and design It proposes an emergent field of biocreativity and outlines its historical and theoretical foundations from the perspective of artists architects designers scientists historians and theoreticians Includes over 150 black and white images A Study of Rudolf Steiner's First Goetheanum Bernadette Schwartz, 1983
