Selecting Foster Parents:

In Quest of Foster Parents Dorothy Hutchinson, 1946 Foster Parent Handbook Mary Rapshaw, 2002-04-11 BECOME A FOSTER PARENT A mom dad house and dog do not make a home Everyday there are children who experience this sad fact when they are removed from their home due to neglect or abuse Not every foster child has a foster family In some regions foster children must wait for long periods of time in shelter care More than one half million children in the United States rely on foster families to provide a safe and loving home Many wonderful and caring families would like to open their homes to these children but are clueless about how to get started There are many misconceptions myths and misunderstandings surrounding foster care These concerns must be shattered and waiting children must be nurtured This book details for prospective foster parents the requirements qualifications and screening process Step by step foster parents are guided through the crucial decisions and directed to the vital information they will need to foster parent effectively Foster Parent Handbook provides an indispensable guide for navigating through the foster care system It is designed for use by prospective foster parents those who are currently foster parents and professionals providing foster care services Predictors of Placement Outcomes in Treatment Foster Care Richard E. Redding, 2015 Treatment foster care TFC is a normalizing environment in which to treat those children whose particular needs are not addressed in traditional foster care and for whom an institutional setting is a restrictive and unnecessary alternative However when the foster care placements of these emotionally and behaviorally disturbed children fail as they often do the children are shifted from one home to another without the opportunity to experience permanence or emotional attachment resulting in poor adjustment to foster care Placement stability which depends in part upon effective matching of foster children with potential foster families is critical for achieving positive outcomes in TFC Yet there is a dearth of information to guide placement agencies in making decisions about matching foster children with families Moreover once a successful match has been made it is equally vital that service delivery be of high quality so that permanence is maintained We review research on the predictors of positive outcomes in foster care focusing on studies involving emotionally or behaviorally disturbed children and provide recommendations for selecting foster parents and for ensuring high quality foster care services and placement stability Process and Criteria of Selecting Foster Parents Wendy Ya-Chun Lee, 2001 Foster Family Services Selected Reading List United States.
