

The image shows a modern building with a prominent horizontal ledge. On the ledge, there is a large, abstract sculpture with curved, organic forms in shades of yellow and black. To its right is a smaller, dark sculpture. Below the ledge, a group of people is gathered in a courtyard area, some sitting on the grass and others standing. The building's facade is composed of vertical panels. The sky is clear and blue. The text is overlaid on the right side of the image, partially obscuring the building and the sky.

Artwashing the Past David W.J. Gill, 2024-10-01 Artwashing the Past Context Matters contributes to the wider discussion about the appropriate due diligence process that should be conducted prior to the acquisition of cultural objects The chapters were written as museums in Europe and North America were facing a series of claims on recently acquired objects in their collections in the light of the photographic dossiers that had been seized from dealers in Switzerland and Greece They engage with some of the recent debates over cultural property that include the Ka Ka Nefer mummy mask currently in the St Louis Art Museum and the Leutwitz Apollo acquired by the Cleveland Museum of Art Two of the essays reflect on the recent and controversial metal detecting finds in England the so called Crosby Garrett helmet and the Lenborough Hoard

Imagined Battles Peter Paret, 1997 For thousands of years art has interpreted the experience of war_its methods human costs and moral ambiguities_and has offered historians a wealth of testimony that is only beginning to be systematically explored In this wide ranging study Peter Paret discusses forty seven paintings and prints as complex documents of war in Europe since the Renaissance and as examples of the artist s use of war as a metaphor for the human condition The images include works by such major artists as Uccello G ricault and Dix as well as academic history paintings and popular prints By setting each in its historical environment and analyzing it from the perspective of the wars of its time illuminates the place of war in Western consciousness and expands our understanding of works that are too often approached with little concern for the reality they depict or symbolically transform Perhaps the most significant of the themes he traces over five centuries is the gradual change from the prince or general to the common soldier and civilian victim as central figures in the interpretation of war in art
