Ecotheology and the Practice of Hope Anne Marie Dalton, Henry C. Simmons, 2010-09-29 Is there any hope for a more sustainable world Can we reimagine a way of living in which the nonhuman world matters Anne Marie Dalton and Henry C Simmons claim that the ecotheology that arose during the mid twentieth century gives us reason for hope While ecotheologians acknowledge that Christianity played a significant role in creating societies in which the nonhuman world counted for very little these thinkers have refocused religion to include the natural world To borrow philosopher Charles Taylor s concept they have created a new social imaginary reimagining a better world and a different sense of what is and what should be A new mindset is emerging inspired by ecotheological texts and evident in the many diverse movements and activities that operate as if the hope imparted by ecotheology has already been realized While making this powerful argument Dalton and Simmons also provide an essential overview of key ecotheological thinkers and texts

Transforming the Struggles of Tamars Lina Androviene,2014-05-29 This book explores the unprecedented challenge of involuntary singleness for women and the implications of disregarding this challenge for the Christian and particularly baptistic communities of faith It argues that these communities not only fail involuntarily single women but also in so doing suffer a serious detriment to their own communal health and Christian witness Taking the challenge of involuntary singleness as a test case this book explores the method of convictional theology and argues for a holistic framework that can draw together the personal communal and visionary spheres of human existence Although primarily a work of theological ethics it also draws from a number of different disciplines including cultural studies and sociology as well as intersections of science and theology

Creation and Hope Nicola Hoggard Creegan,Andrew Shepherd,2018-04-25 We live in an ecological age Science in the last few hundred years has given us a picture of nature as blind to the future and mechanical in its workings even while ecology and physics have made us aware of our interconnectedness and dependency upon the web of life As we witness a possible sixth great mass extinction there is increasing awareness too of the fragility of life on this planet In such a context what is the nature of Christian hope St Paul declares that all of creation will be set free from its bondage to decay and will obtain the freedom of the glory of the children of God How are we to imagine this freedom when death and decay are essential to biological life as we currently experience it and when the scientific predictions for life are bleak at best This book explores these questions reflecting on how our traditions shape our imagination of the future and considering how a theology of hope may sustain Christians engaged in conservation initiatives The essays in this volume are partly in dialogue with the ground breaking work of Celia Deane Drummond and are set in the context of global and local Aotearoa New Zealand ecological challenges

Secular Nonviolence and the Theo-Drama of Peace Layton Boyd Friesen, 2022-02-10 What happens when a five century tradition of Christian pacifism no longer needs Jesus to support nonviolence Why does secularity cause this dilemma for Mennonites in their theology of peace Layton Boyd Friesen offers an ancient theology and spirituality of incarnation as the church s response to the non resistance of Christ He explores three key aspects of von Balthasar s Christology to help Mennonite peace theology regain its momentum in the secular age with a contemplative union with Christ This volume argues that the way to regain a Christ formed pacifism within secularity is to contemplate and enter the mystery unveiled in the Chalcedonian Definition of Christ as interpreted by Hans Urs von Balthasar In this mystery the believer is drawn into real time participation in Christ s encounter with the secular world often the biblical passages governing sexual morality are interpreted in simplistic proof texting ways that take no account of the cultural gap between ancient Israel and the modern world And too often the official positions of churches are determined by opinion polls and majority votes rather than a sober theological and ethical assessment of the issues involved A third way is called for that avoids the errors of both naive fundamentalism and the Bible dismissing zeitgeist a way that puts theological reflection at the forefront This little book aims to provide a theologically informed biblical approach to help Christians find a new way forward in their dialogue over questions surrounding homosexuality It deconstructs the Augustinian theological tradition that has defined evaluated and regulated sexual behavior in the western Christian traditions Kraus maintains that the doctrine of the creation rather than the doctrine of sin must be the framework for understanding sexuality and sexual desire He argues that the basic justification for erotic physical intimacy is the fulfillment of God's original intention for human community shalom Beginning with the definition of the image of God as a social symbol that mirrors the Trinity Kraus calls the church to reflect that trinitarian image as it is seen in Christ He argues that this stance at the very least calls the church to empathetic inclusion of the GLBTQ community in its ongoing discernment conversation which of course means full participation in its life
