New Forms Of Security Views From Central Eastern And Western Europe:

New Forms of Security Pál Dunay, Gábor Kardos, Andrew J. Williams, 1995 It has become a truism to say that the security agenda for the 1990s cannot be the same as that which prevailed during the Long Peace of the period 1945-1990. This book addresses the changed security situation in Europe. It attempts to elucidate what it means to be a European by focusing on fears for a collective future and on proposals to improve it. It demonstrates that a European wide consensus is emerging that needs to be fully absorbed by the institutional structures that attempt to direct security matters on the Continent.

European Security in Transition Franz Kernic, 2016-04-22 Since the end of World War II security and defence have played a major role in European politics. With the European Union's increasing role on the global stage and with today's war on terrorism security and defence issues have dramatically gained weight and importance in international politics. This compelling volume provides an interdisciplinary look at the development and current status of the European security system as well as selected key issues on today's security agenda. As such it provides an excellent resource for those wishing to make sense of the complexities of defence and security issues in the European Union at a time of global change.

Pushing Back the Boundaries Mike Mannin, 1999 Missionary families were an integral component of the missionary enterprise both as active agents on the global religious stage and as a force within the enterprise that shaped understandings and theories of mission itself. Taking the family as a legitimate unit of historical analysis in its own right for the first time Missionary families traces changing familial policies and lived realities throughout the nineteenth century and powerfully argues for the importance of an historical understanding of the missionary enterprise informed by the complex interplay between the intimate, the personal and the professional. By looking at marriage, parenting and childhood along with professionalism, vocation and domesticity this first in-depth study of missionary families reveals their profound importance to the missionary enterprise and concludes that mission history can no longer be written without attention to the personal, emotional and intimate aspects of missionary lives.

Maritime Security Cooperation in the Gulf of Guinea Kamal-Deen Ali, 2015-07-28 In Maritime Security Cooperation in the Guinea Prospects and Challenges Kamal Deen Ali provides ground-breaking analyses of the maritime security situation in the Gulf of Guinea and its implications for shipping, energy, security, sustainable fisheries as well as national and regional security. The book juxtaposes the growing strategic importance of the Gulf of Guinea against the rising insecurity in the maritime domain, especially from piracy. Ali points out key gaps in prevailing regional and international approaches to maritime security cooperation in the Gulf of Guinea and sets out several suggestions for combating piracy as well as other maritime security threats while effectively enhancing maritime security cooperation in the region.

Liberalization and Foreign Policy Miles Kahler, 1997 Inaugurates a new field of disability studies by framing disability as a minority discourse rather than a medical one, revising oppressive narratives and revealing liberatory ones. The book examines disabled figures in Harriet Beecher Stowe's Uncle Tom's Cabin and Rebecca Harding

Davis's Life in the Iron Mills in African American novels by Toni Morrison and Audre Lorde and in the popular cultural ritual of the freak show

The Union and the World: The Political Economy of a Common European Foreign Policy Alan Cafruny, Patrick Peters, 2023-08-21 During the last decade Europe has been transformed both politically and commercially. The establishment of a genuinely single marketplace in the context of an expanding membership has enabled the European Union greatly to enhance its role on the world stage. In the areas of trade and commercial policy the Union increasingly speaks with one voice. As a result of the Maastricht Treaty on Economic and Political Union of 1993 a process has been set in motion whereby the embryonic mechanisms of a common foreign policy, European Political Cooperation or EPC, are gradually evolving into a more comprehensive Common Foreign and Security Policy (CFSP). The contributors to this volume describe and evaluate the nature and extent to which the European Union plays an independent role in international affairs. This pioneering work makes an important contribution to the literature on the European Union since the chapters present a comprehensive picture of the Union's foreign economic policies and actions, its foreign security policy and the supranational nature of much Union decision making. The book is significant not only because of its dual focus on economics as well as politics but also because it comprehensively covers the broad range of Union policies in both the economic and political spheres. The intended level of readership is undergraduate courses on the EU and on European politics, upper level undergraduate courses in International Relations and graduate survey courses on the EU. The book is sufficiently comprehensive and instructive to achieve a wide readership, especially in North America and the UK.

Europe as Empire Jan Zielonka, 2007-10-11 This book offers a strikingly new perspective on EU enlargement. Basing his findings on substantial empirical evidence, Zielonka presents a carefully argued account of the kind of political entity the European Union is becoming, with particular reference to recent enlargement.

Reading Humanitarian Intervention Anne

Orford, 2003-06-26 During the 1990s humanitarian intervention seemed to promise a world in which democracy self determination and human rights would be privileged over national interests or imperial ambitions Orford provides critical readings of the narratives that accompanied such interventions and shaped legal justifications for the use of force by the international community Through a close reading of legal texts and institutional practice she argues that a far more circumscribed exploitative and conservative interpretation of the ends of intervention was adopted during this period The book draws on a wide range of sources including critical legal theory feminist and postcolonial theory psychoanalytic theory and critical geography to develop ways of reading directed at thinking through the cultural and economic effects of militarized humanitarianism The book concludes by asking what if anything has been lost in the move from the era of humanitarian intervention to an international relations dominated by wars on terror Failed Imagination? Andrew J. Williams, 1998 Francisco Gomez de Sandoval Duke of Lerma 1553-1625 is the last major unknown statesman in modern European history Patrick Williams brings him dramatically to life and challenges the assumptions that historians have made about him and about Spanish history at a time of profound crisis inviting a re-evaluation of the phenomenon of government by favourites in this seminal period of European history Lerma served Philip III as his favourite and first minister between 1598 and 1618 His power dazzled contemporaries one petitioner telling Philip that he had come to see him because I could not get an appointment with the Duke of Lerma Within a decade of assuming office Lerma had raised his family from humiliating poverty to great riches and was the greatest patron of the arts in Europe His use of power provoked intense debate about the nature of corruption in government Yet Lerma remained deeply ambivalent about his position Determined to follow family tradition and retire into religious life to secure the salvation of his soul he secured a cardinalate in 1617 ending his life as a prince of the Church Failed Imagination? Andrew Williams, 2013-01-18 The main purpose of this book is to explain how mainly American but also British and other Western policy makers have planned and largely managed to create an international order in their own image the so-called New World Order It shows how this seismic shift in international relations has developed through the major global wars of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries It uses a wide variety of historical archival material to give the background to the current and historical American obsession with creating the world order one that both reflects the American national interest but also can be said to have established the major security economic organisational and normative pillars of our epoch In addition it provides excellent background reading for the current debate about American foreign policy and the origins of neo-conservatism in international relations This edition updates a very successful first edition of the title with additional material to take into account changes in the global order since 2001 and the beginning of the War on Terror Central and South-Eastern Europe 2003 Europa Publications, 2002 An in-depth survey of the region presenting the latest economic and political developments It includes expert comment on issues of regional importance up-to-date statistics a directory of institutes and companies and political profiles European Security and NATO Enlargement: a View from Central Europe, Human Rights in Libya Giacomina De Bona, 2013 Since the end of the Cold War a democratic wave has swept through large parts of the world propagating liberal values and giving impetus to the case for human rights in an international society To date however the promotion of human rights has presented a mixed account with some countries lagging behind others in terms of their observance. In an effort to account for these differences, this book analyzes the relationship between norms and the social construction of international society and examines how human rights are promoted in that context. Focussing on Libya as a case study, Giacomina De Bona criticises the neo realist approach by demonstrating the impact of international society on the advancement of human rights. Libya has related to the international environment in different ways over time ranging from isolation to reconciliation and regime change, making it a particularly interesting example. This book is of particular relevance in light of the recent Arab Spring and raises the question as to whether the coercive imposition of the Western liberal model contributes to establishing respect for human rights in what continue to be the peripheral zones of international society. Central and South-Eastern Europe 2004 Europa Publications, 2003. Comprises a general survey of the region, country surveys, political profiles of the region and information on international and regional organizations and research institutes.
