Numerical Methods for Grid Equations A.A. Samarskij, E.S. Nikolaev, 2012-12-06 The finite difference solution of mathematical physics differential equations is carried out in two stages 1 the writing of the difference scheme a difference approximation to the differential equation on a grid 2 the computer solution of the difference equations which are written in the form of a high order system of linear algebraic equations of special form ill conditioned band structured Application of general linear algebra methods is not always appropriate for such systems because of the need to store a large volume of information as well as because of the large amount of work required by these methods For the solution of difference equations special methods have been developed which in one way or another take into account special features of the problem and which allow the solution to be found using less work than via the general methods This work is an extension of the book Difference Method for the Solution of Elliptic Equations by A A Samarskii and V B Andreev which considered a whole set of questions connected with difference approximations the construction of difference operators and estimation of the convergence rate of difference schemes for typical elliptic boundary value problems Here we consider only solution methods for difference equations The book in fact consists of two volumes Numerical Methods for Grid Equations A.A. Nikolaev, 1989-01-01 Grid Generation Methods Vladimir D. Liseikin, 2009-10-27 This book is an introduction to structured and unstructured grid methods in scientific computing addressing graduate students scientists as well as practitioners Basic local and integral grid quality measures are formulated and new approaches to mesh generation are reviewed In addition to the content of the successful first edition a more detailed and practice oriented description of monitor metrics in Beltrami and diffusion equations is given for generating adaptive numerical grids Also new techniques developed by the author are presented in particular a technique based on the inverted form of Beltrami's partial differential equations with respect to control metrics This technique allows the generation of adaptive grids for a wide variety of computational physics problems including grid clustering to given function values and gradients grid alignment with given vector fields and combinations thereof Applications of geometric methods to the analysis of numerical grid behavior as well as grid generation based on the minimization of functionals of smoothness conformality orthogonality energy and alignment complete the second edition of this outstanding compendium on grid generation methods Computational Flow Modeling for Chemical Reactor Engineering Vivek V.
