D'Amico, Laurie L.

Weinstein, 1999-03 Controversy about women in the military continues yet women's relations with the military go far beyond whether they serve in the ranks Gender Camouflage brings together a diverse array of authors to explore the controversy surrounding women's military service to examine the invisibility of civilian women who support the institution and to expose the military's efforts to camouflage their support and contributions Contributors first consider nurses servicewomen military academy students female veterans and lesbians The focus then shifts to military wives women employed by the DoD and female civilian military instructors whose work is less visible but no less essential to the institution The book also examines the experiences of women outside of the military such as comfort women near U.S. bases women engaged in peacework and women workers affected by military spending in the federal budget Analytic chapters are juxtaposed with first person narratives by women who have actually been there including a member of the first gender integrated class at West Point the first female civilian instructors at the U.S. Naval Academy and an African American Air Force Nurse Corps veteran Contributors include Connie Reeves Georgia Clark Sadler Gwyn Kirk and Joan Furey The Sociology of Health and Illness Peter Conrad, 2005 This collection of 49 readings offers an integrated analysis of the most important issues regarding health and health care from a critical and sociological perspective Substantive introductions provide context for the readings With ten new and two revised essays the Seventh Edition contains more coverage of key areas such as alternative medicine the pharmaceutical industry and the relationship between healthcare and politics Officer, Nurse, Woman Kara Dixon Vuic, 2010-01-01 Winner 2010 Lavinia L Dock Award American Association for the History of Nursing An American Journal of Nursing Book of the Year in History and Public Policy I never got a chance to be a girl Kate O Hare Palmer lamented thirty four years after her tour as an army nurse in Vietnam Although proud of having served she felt that the war she never understood had robbed her of her innocence and forced her to grow up too quickly As depicted in a photograph taken late in her tour long hours in the operating room exhausted her both physically and mentally Her tired eyes and gaunt face reflected the weariness she felt after treating countless patients some dying some maimed all like her forever changed Still she learned to work harder and faster than she thought she could to trust her nursing skills and to live independently She developed a way to balance the dangers and benefits of being a woman in the army and in the war Only fourteen months long her tour in Vietnam profoundly affected her life and her beliefs Such vivid personal accounts abound in historian Kara Dixon Vuic's compelling look at the experiences of army nurses in the Vietnam War Drawing on more than 100 interviews Vuic allows the nurses to tell their own captivating stories from their reasons for joining the military to the physical and emotional demands of a horrific war and postwar debates about how to commemorate their service Vuic also explores the gender issues that arose when a male dominated army actively recruited and employed the services of 5 000 nurses in the midst of a growing feminist movement and a changing nursing profession Women drawn to the army's patriotic promise faced disturbing realities in the virtually all male hospitals of South Vietnam Men who joined the nurse corps ran headlong into the army's belief that women should nurse and men should fight Officer Nurse Woman brings to light the nearly forgotten contributions of brave nurses who risked their lives to bring medical care to soldiers during a terrible and divisive war

Instructor's Guide to Accompany Nursing in Society Josephine A. Dolan, 1978* Sociological Perspectives of Health and Illness Constantinos N. Phellas, 2010-10-12 Medical sociology has evolved from being considered as an unimportant area of enquiry to being regarded as central to the study of private troubles and public issues At present much of what is deemed in sociology as exciting is advancing or contributing to the field of health It is appropriate therefore that an edited text is published to specifically examine some of the important themes currently in medical sociology research and writing This volume documents thinking frameworks and processes that are actively shaping the medical sociology research of today It covers a wide range of topics ranging from the morality of death and euthanasia to the conflict that exists between different status health care providers Sociological Perspectives of Health and Illness will be of interest to students across a wide range of courses in sociology and the social sciences Specifically students undertaking undergraduate and postgraduate courses in health studies and health promotion would benefit by reading this textbook. However, professionals will also be attracted to the book due to the dissemination of current practices in health promotion issues and practices.

Long-Term Care in an Aging Society Graham D. Rowles, Pamela B. Teaster, 2015-08-13

This is a comprehensive graduate textbook focusing on the full spectrum of long-term care settings, ranging from family and community-based care through supportive housing options to a variety of institutional long-term care alternatives. Integrating theory and practice, the book features the perspectives of diverse fields regarding current long-term care options and new directions for the future. Prominent scholars from history, environmental design, family caregiving, social service, delivery, clinical care, health service, delivery, public policy, finance, law, and ethics explore such themes as Relationships among independence, dependence, and interdependence; Ethical considerations woven into the provision of long-term care; Decision making in long-term care; Fluidity in long-term care; The lived experience of long-term care; A micro-macro perspective ranging from the individual to societal institutions. The book examines future directions for long-term care, considering such factors as the interface of technology and long-term care; cultural diversity and relationships between voluntary and paid services. Each chapter includes case examples, study questions, and exercises, additional resources, and website links. An extensive glossary of terms is also provided, as well as instructor's resources, which are also available. Key Features:

- Focuses on the full array of long-term care options.
- Integrates theory and practice.
- Incorporates the perspectives of diverse fields, including history, environmental design, family caregiving, social services, public policy, etc.
- Includes numerous case examples, study questions, exercises, and additional resources.
- Considers new approaches to long-term care, incorporating technology and considering cultural diversity and voluntary vs. paid services.

About the Authors: Graham D. Rowles, PhD, is Founding Director of the Graduate Center for Gerontology and Chair of the Department of Gerontology, University of Kentucky. He is also Professor of Gerontology with joint appointments in Nursing, Behavioral Science, Geography, and Health Behavior. An environmental gerontologist, his research focuses on the lived experience of aging. A central theme of this work is exploration, employing qualitative methodologies of the changing relationship between older adults and their environments with advancing age and the implications of this relationship for health, wellbeing, and environmental design. He has conducted in-depth ethnographic research with elderly populations in urban, inner-city, rural, Appalachian, and nursing facility environments. Recent research includes leadership of the Kentucky Elder Readiness Initiative (KERI), a statewide project to explore the implications for communities of the aging of the Baby Boom cohort. His publications include Prisoners of Space and six co-edited volumes, in addition to more than 60 book chapters and articles. He is a Fellow of the Gerontological Society of America and the Association for Gerontology in Higher Education and currently serves on the editorial boards of the Journal of Applied Gerontology and Journal of Housing for the Elderly.
