Productivity Race British Manufacturing In International Perspective 1850 199:

The Productivity Race S. N. Broadberry, 1997-08-14 This book is a reassessment of British performance in manufacturing since 1850 in the light of new evidence on international comparisons of productivity Using a novel analytical framework of technological evolution Stephen Broadberry uncovers new ways of looking at Britain's relative economic decline while debunking a number of misapprehensions regarding the nature and causes of the decline It analyses productivity levels in Britain the United States and Germany and provides detailed case studies of all the major manufacturing industries broken down into three periods 1850 1914 1914 50 and 1950 90 Broadberry offers a wide coverage of industries with invaluable country specific information By combining a multitude of detailed productivity measurements with qualitative industrial and business history he provides a major contribution to our understanding of British economic performance over the last 150 years

The Industrial Revolution in Iron Chris Evans, Göran Rydén, 2017-07-05 The essays in this volume each written by an acknowledged expert in the field trace the fortunes of British coal technology as it spread across the European continent from Sweden and Russia to the Alps and Spain and supply an authoritative picture of industrial transformation in one of the key industries of the 19th century In this period iron making in continental Europe was transformed by the take up of technologies such as coke smelting and iron puddling that had already revolutionised the British iron industry The transfer of British technologies was fundamental to European industrialisation but that transfer was not straightforward The techniques that had proved so successful in Britain had to be adapted to local circumstances elsewhere for charcoal fired techniques proved surprisingly durable More often than not as these studies show coal fired methods were incorporated into traditional production systems making for the proliferation of technological hybrids Overall it is diversity that stands out Some European regions southern Belgium came near to the British model others Spain persisted with charcoal technology into the late 19th century Some countries Sweden adopted British organisational principles but not the reliance on coal others Russia maintained different iron making sectors one coal based the other loyal to charcoal in parallel

Power to the People Astrid Kander, Paolo Malanima, Paul Warde, 2015-12-29 Power to the People examines the varied but interconnected relationships between energy consumption and economic development in Europe over the last five centuries It describes how the traditional energy economy of medieval and early modern Europe was marked by stable or falling per capita energy consumption and how the First Industrial Revolution in the eighteenth century fueled by coal and steam engines redrew the economic social and geopolitical map of Europe and the world The Second Industrial Revolution continued this energy expansion and social transformation through the use of oil and electricity but after 1970 Europe entered a new stage in which energy consumption has stabilized This book challenges the view that the outsourcing of heavy industry overseas is the cause arguing that a Third Industrial Revolution driven by new information and communication technologies has played a major stabilizing role Power to the People offers new perspectives on the challenges posed today by climate change and peak

oil demonstrating that although the path of modern economic development has vastly increased our energy use it has not been a story of ever rising and continuous consumption The book sheds light on the often lengthy and complex changes needed for new energy systems to emerge the role of energy resources in economic growth and the importance of energy efficiency in promoting growth and reducing future energy demand

The Economic Government of the World Martin Daunton, 2023-11-14 Foreign Affairs Best Books of the Year 2023 An epic history of the people and institutions that have built the global economy since the Great Depression In this vivid landmark history the distinguished economic historian Martin Daunton pulls back the curtain on the institutions and individuals who have created and managed the global economy over the last ninety years revealing how and why one economic order breaks down and another is built During the Great Depression trade and currency warfare led to the rise of economic nationalism a retreat from globalization that culminated in war From World War II came a new liberal economic order Squarely reflecting the interests of the West in the Cold War liberalism faced collapse in the 1970s and was succeeded by neoliberalism financialization and hyper globalization Now as leading nations are tackling the fallout from Covid 19 and threats of inflation food insecurity and climate change Daunton calls for a return to a more just and equitable form of globalization Western imperial powers have overwhelmingly determined the structures of world economic government often advancing their own self interests and leading to ruinous resource extraction debt poverty and political and social instability in the Global South He argues that while our current economic system is built upon the politics of and between the world s biggest economies a future of global recovery and the reduction of economic inequality requires the development of multilateral institutions Dramatic and revelatory The Economic Government of the World offers a powerful analysis of the origins of our current global crises and a path toward a fairer international order

Henry Enfield Roscoe Peter J. T. Morris, Peter Reed, 2024 Now largely forgotten Henry Enfield Roscoe was one of the most prominent chemists and educational reformers in Victorian Britain His contributions include transforming Owens College into Victoria University now the University of Manchester campaigning for the reform of technical education serving as the Liberal MP for South Manchester and cofounding the Lister Institute of Preventative Medicine In this detailed biography authors Morris and Reed provide a timely and original contribution to the history of nineteenth century British science and its relation to education industry and government policy highlighting Roscoe s significant legacy as one of the leading scientists of his generation
