Program Evaluation In Human Services:

Program Evaluation in Human Services Michael J. Smith, 2004-01-01 It is a rare occurrence to read an introductory text written by an accomplished practitioner in which the essentials are identified and addressed and the temptations to pursue the subject in depth appropriately avoided The resulting product is enlightening to the sophisticater as well as to the novice Harold Smith Dean Hunter College School of Social Work Program Evaluation in the Human Services Robert O. Washington, 1980 Pragmatic Program Evaluation for Social Work Allen Rubin, 2020-07-23 This textbook balances methodological rigor with the practicalities of becoming a successful evaluator in service oriented settings

Program Evaluation in Human Services Organizations Janaki Santhiveeran, 1994 Human Services Program Evaluation Thomas Barrett, James Sorensen, 2015 The term outcome evaluation has become one of the most popular terms among human service providers and those whose job it is to evaluate the impact of human service programs In the public sector alone there are over a hundred instruments in use to evaluate the impact of state human service programs Most states many providers and most accrediting bodies have taken on the challenge of developing better program evaluation because there is universal agreement that better evaluation systems are needed This multiplicity of approaches may have been appropriate for the early stages of development but eventually some standardization is necessary This program evaluation discusses the following topics as a means to inform and guide sound policy and practice decision making

- 1 Why Do You Need to Know about Program Evaluation
- 2 Getting Started
- 3 Needs Assessments
- 4 Client Outcomes and Costs in Human Services Organizations
- 5 Financial Management in Human Services Organizations
- 6 Special Programs in Program Evaluation
- 7 Research Designs in Program Evaluation
- 8 Implementation and Maintenance of Program Evaluation
- 9 Role of the Evaluator

Program Evaluation Robert L. Schalock, C.V.D. Thornton, 2013-11-11 This book is written to help human service program administrators either in interpret or conduct program evaluations Our intended audience includes admin istrators and those students being trained for careers in human services administration Our focus is on persons interested in assessing programs in which people work with people to improve their condition The book s title Program Evaluation A Field Guide for Administrators describes how we hope you use this book as a tool In writing the book we have attempted to meet the needs of persons who have to conduct program evaluations as well as those who must use those evaluations Hence we have attempted to make the book user friendly You will find for example numer ous guidelines cautions and specific suggestions Use the book actively Our primary motive is to help administrators make better decisions In fact the primary reason for program evaluation is to help program administrators make good decisions These decisions often must balance the goals of equity or fairness in the distribution of goods and services among people in the economy efficiency obtaining the most output for the least resources and political feasibility Take for example the administrator who must decide between a new program favored by some of the program's constituents and maintaining the status quo which is favored by other constituents
