Red Justice:

Red Zones Marie-Eve Sylvestre, Nicholas Blomley, Céline Bellot, 2020-01-02 In Red Zones Marie Eve Sylvestre Nicholas Blomley and Céline Bellot examine the court imposed territorial restrictions and other bail and sentencing conditions that are increasingly issued in the context of criminal proceedings Drawing on extensive fieldwork with legal actors in the criminal justice system as well as those who have been subjected to court surveillance the authors demonstrate the devastating impact these restrictions have on the marginalized populations the homeless drug users sex workers and protesters who depend on public spaces On a broader level the authors show how red zones unlike better publicized forms of spatial regulation such as legislation or policing strategies create a form of legal territorialization that threatens to invert traditional expectations of justice and reshape our understanding of criminal law and punishment The New York Red Book, 1897

rights that are recognized by many legal international and national documents These rights like the right to adequate housing to food to health care and to social security are intended to alleviate human misery and in so doing contribute to a dignified life Knowing that these rights exist might lead one to think is not such widespread socio economic human misery a violation of people s human rights more especially of their economic social and cultural rights This book addresses the rights the wrongs the law and what we need to do
