nineteenth century music Before the Baton throws new light on many hitherto dark areas though the heart of the book is an extended discussion of the evidence relating to Handel's operas oratorios and choral music Contrary to near universal modern practice he mostly preferred to play rather than beat time PETER HOLMAN is Emeritus Professor of Historical Musicology at Leeds University When not occupied with writing and research he organises performances of seventeenth and eighteenth century music mostly directing them from the keyboard He is director of The Parley of Instruments Leeds Baroque the Suffolk Villages Festival and the annual Baroque Summer School run by Cambridge Early Music Ancient and Modern Howard Irving, 2018-12-13 First published 1999 Howard Irving details Croch's lecturing career and examines the influences of figures such as Charles Burney and Sir Joshua Reynolds on his approach to the ancient modern debate Irving also makes available for the first time in a modern edition Croch's 1818 lecture series These texts help to fill a gap in our knowledge of the development of musical classics as they span a period of years that were crucial to the history of canon formation

The Sound of the English Picturesque Stephen Groves, 2023-12-04 Revealing the connections between the veneration of national landscape and eighteenth century English vocal music this study restores English music's relationship with the picturesque In the eighteenth century the emerging taste for the picturesque was central to British aesthetics as poets and painters gained popularity by glorifying the local landscape in works concurrent with the emergence of native countryside tourism Yet English music was seldom discussed as a medium for conveying national scenic beauty Stephen Groves explores this gap and shows how secular song the glee and national theatre music expressed a uniquely English engagement with landscape Using an interdisciplinary approach Groves addresses the apparent silence of the English picturesque The book draws on analysis of the visualisations present in the texts of English vocal music and their musical treatment to demonstrate how local composers incorporated celebrations of landscape into their works The final chapter shows that the English picturesque was a crucial influence on Joseph Haydn's oratorio The Seasons Suitable for anyone with an interest in eighteenth century music aesthetics and the natural environment this book will appeal to a wide range of specialists and non specialists alike Samuel Wesley Philip Olleson, 2003 This book draws on letters family papers and other contemporary documents to offer a full study of Wesley his music and his life and times Jacket

Music and Institutions in Nineteenth-Century Britain Paul Rodmell, 2016-04-29 In nineteenth century British society music and musicians were organized as they had never been before This organization was manifested in part by the introduction of music into powerful institutions both out of belief in music's inherently beneficial properties and also to promote music occupations and professions in society at large This book provides a representative and varied sample of the interactions between music and organizations in various locations in the nineteenth century British Empire exploring not only how and why music was institutionalized but also how and why institutions became musicalized Individual essays explore amateur societies that promoted music making institutions that played host to music making groups both amateur and professional music in diverse educational institutions and the relationships between music and what might be referred to as the institutions of state Through all of the essays runs the theme of the various ways in which institutions of varying formality and rigidity interacted with music and musicians and the mutual benefit and exploitation that resulted from that interaction

The Advancement of Music in Enlightenment England Tim Eggington, 2014 This is a book guaranteed to make waves It skilfully weaves the story of one key musical figure into the story of one key institution which it then weaves into the general story of music in eighteenth century England Anyone reading it will come away with fresh knowledge and perceptions plus a great urge to hear Cooke s music Michael Talbot Emeritus Professor of Music at the University of Liverpool and Fellow of the British Academy Amidst the cosmopolitan fashion obsessed concert life of later eighteenth century London there existed a discrete musical counterculture centred round a club known as the Academy of Ancient Music Now largely forgotten this enlightened school of musical thinkers sought to further music by proffering an alternative vision based on a high minded intellectual curiosity Perceiving only ear tickling ostentation in the showy styles that delighted London audiences they aspired to raise the status of music as an art of profound expression informed by its past and founded on universal harmonic principles Central to this group of musical thinkers was the modest yet highly accomplished musician scholar Benjamin Cooke who both embodied and reflected this counterculture As organist of Westminster Abbey and conductor of the Academy of Ancient Music for much of the second half of the eighteenth century Cooke enjoyed prominence in his day as a composer organist teacher and theorist This book shows how through his creativity historicism and theorising Cooke was instrumental in proffering an Enlightenment inspired reassessment of musical composition and thinking at the Academy The picture portrayed counters the current tendency to dismiss eighteenth century English musicians as conservative and provincial Casting new and valuable light on English musical history and on Enlightenment culture more generally this book reveals how the agenda for musical advancement shared by Cooke and his Academy associates foreshadowed key developments that would mould European music of the nineteenth century and after It includes an extensive bibliography a detailed overview of the Cooke Collection at the Royal College of Music and a complete list of Cooke s works TIM EGGINGTON is College Librarian at Queens College Cambridge
