

Module 6: A Nation Grows - 1877 to the 1900s

Topic 3 Application: Analyzing Population Growth

In this activity, you will analyze the population trends for New York City from 1790 until 2000. You need to complete both all three parts of the activity. Make sure to answer all questions completely.

Part I: Complete the Table

- To calculate the change in population from decade to decade, you will need to subtract the previous decade's total population from the current decade's total population. The example shows the total population change from 1790 to 1800.

$$76 - 45 = 31 \text{ (remember the answer is in thousands, making the total population 31,000)}$$

- Calculate the percent of population change. In order to complete this calculation, you will need to divide the change in population from the previous decade's total population. Then, multiply the value times 100%. The example shows the percent of population change from 1790 to 1800.

$$\frac{31}{45} \times 100 = 68.8\% \text{ (the answer is rounded up to 69\%)}$$

Population of New York City from 1790 until 2000
