Making Sense of Health, Disease, and the Environment in Cross-Cultural History: The Arabic-Islamic World, China, Europe, and North America Florence Bretelle-Establet,Marie Gaille,Mehrnaz Katouzian-Safadi,2020-01-01 This book has been defined around three important issues the first sheds light on how people in various philosophical religious and political contexts understand the natural environment and how the relationship between the environment and the body is perceived the second focuses on the perceptions that a particular natural environment is good or bad for human health and examines the reasons behind such characterizations the third examines the promotion in history of specific practices to take advantage of the health benefits or avoid the harm caused by certain environments and also efforts made to change environments supposed to be harmful to human health The feeling and or the observation that the natural environment can have effects on human health have been and are still commonly shared throughout the world This led us to raise the issue of the links observed and believed to exist between human beings and the natural environment in a broad chronological and geographical framework In this investigation we bring the reader from ancient and late imperial China to the medieval Arab world up to medieval modern and contemporary Europe This book does not examine these relationships through the prism of the knowledge of our modern contemporary European experience which still too often leads to the feeling of totally different worlds Rather it questions protagonists who in different times and in different places have reflected on their own terms on the links between environment and health and tries to obtain a better understanding of why these links took the form they did in these precise contexts This book targets an academic readership as well as an informed audience for whom present issues of environment and health can be nourished by the reflections of the past

Trigger, 2003-05-05 This book offers the first detailed comparative study of the seven best documented early civilizations ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia Shang China the Aztecs and adjacent peoples in the Valley of Mexico the Classic Maya the Inka and the Yoruba Unlike previous studies equal attention is paid to similarities and differences in their sociopolitical organization economic systems religion and culture Many of this study's findings are surprising and provocative Agricultural systems technologies and economic behaviour turn out to have been far more diverse than was expected These findings and many others challenge not only current understandings of early civilizations but also the theoretical foundations of modern archaeology and anthropology The key to understanding early civilizations lies not in their historical connections but in what they can tell us about similarities and differences in human behaviour General Technical Report RM ,1994 Haciendo Operacional a la Sostenibilidad ,1994 Humans in the Siberian Landscapes Vladimir N. Bocharnikov, Alina N. Steblyanskaya, 2022-09-25 This book considers theoretical issues of the ethnocultural landscape concepts at large as well as examples of its practical application in ethnic communities of Siberia It reveals the patterns of the processes of penetration settlement development and adaptation of Siberian populations from Paleolithic time to Russian colonization in the era of the Russian Empire during Soviet modernization and in the face of modern challenges The authors consider the principal interactions character stages conditions system related evidence and phenomena that determine the diverse specifics and multidirectional vectors of a change in the ethnic social cultural economic legal presence in large subregions of Siberia in the mirror of various theoretical paradigms This transdisciplinary volume appeals to researchers lecturers and students in the fields of geography history philosophy anthropology ecology archaeology and interfaces to many other disciplines International Encyclopedia of Human Geography ,2019-11-29 International Encyclopedia of Human Geography Second Edition Fourteen Volume Set embraces diversity by design and captures the ways in which humans share places and view differences based on gender race nationality location and other

Browne,2005-01-13 Academic curricula are being strengthened and enriched through the enlightened realization that no discipline is complete unto itself In the interdisciplinary studies that result the one theme that remains universal is popular culture Academia throughout the disciplines is rapidly coming to understand that it should be used in courses campus wide and on all levels All in the world of education benefit from the use of the cultures around them This work emphasizes the need for interdisciplinary mingling and explores the ways in which instructors can utilize popular culture studies in order to deepen both their own areas of specialization and their students appreciation of education The collection of 18 essays spans campus curricula including the humanities English literature American studies folklore and popular culture the social sciences anthropology history sociology and communications religion and philosophy geography women s studies economics and sports Also addressed is the importance of popular culture courses in both community colleges and high school settings

Early Civilizations Bruce G. Trigger,1993 An important scholarly contribution not only to the study of early civilizations but also to archaeological theory It should be required reading for any course on ancient civilization Kathryn A Bard Journal of Field Archaeology Yaxcabá and the Caste War of Yucatán Rani T. Alexander,2004 Rani Alexander s study of the Caste War of Yucatan 1847 1901 uses archaeological evidence ethnography and history to explore the region s processes of resistance Natural Law, Science, and the Social Construction of Reality Bernie Koenig,2004 Natural Law Science and the Social Construction of Reality looks at changes in knowledge and the relationship to values from the modern era to today Author Bernie Koenig examines Newton s influence on Locke and Kant how Kant influenced Darwin and Freud and the implications of their work for both anthropology and moral theory Ecocriticism, Ecology, and the Cultures of Antiquity Christopher Schliephake,2016-12-07 Although current environmental debates lay the focus on the Industrial Revolution as a sociopolitical development that has led to the current environmental crisis many ecocritical projects have avoided historicizing their concepts or have been characterized by approaches that were either pre historic or post historic while the environmental movement has harbored the dream of restoring nature to a state untouched by human hands there is also the pessimistic vision of a post apocalyptic world exhausted by humanity s consumption of natural resources Against this background the decline of nature has become a narrative template quite common among the public environmental discourse and environmental scientists alike The volume revisits Antiquity as an epoch which witnessed similar environmental problems and came up with its own interpretations and solutions in dealing with them This decidedly historical perspective is not only supposed to fill in a blank in ecocritical discourse but also to question problematize and inform our contemporary debates with a completely different take on nature and humanity s place in the world Thereby a productive dialogue between contemporary ecocritical theories and the classical tradition is established that highlights similarities as well as differences This volume is the first book to bring ecocriticism and the classical tradition into a comprehensive dialogue It assembles recognized experts in the field and advanced scholars as well as young and aspiring ecocritics In order to ensure a dialogic exchange between the contributions the volume includes four response essays by established ecocritics which embed the sections within a larger theoretical and practical ecocritical framework and discuss the potential of including the pre modern world into our environmental debates
