Land, Power, and Economics on the Frontier of Upper Canada John Clarke,2001 Land Power and Economics on the Frontier of Upper Canada examines Ontario's formative years focusing on Essex County in Ontario from 1788 to 1850 Upper Canadian attitudes to land and society are shown to have been built on contemporary visions of the cosmos John Clarke examines the actions of individuals from the perspective of the political culture and its manifestations doing so within the constraints of geography and the cultural baggage of the settlers Placing human action in the context of economics and laissez faire capitalism Clarke shows how almost unbridled acquisitiveness and its concomitant land speculation could promote or hinder development Loyalist Land Ownership in Upper Canada's Norfolk County, 1792-1851 Colin Read,2025-09-29 After the American Revolution many Loyalists moved north where the British colonial government awarded them generous land grants on favourable terms The intention behind these grants was to create a landed gentry in Upper Canada that would safeguard the colony's political security and build social cohesion among its leadership Loyalist Land Ownership in Upper Canada's Norfolk County 1792-1851 examines the long term landholding of Loyalists and other settlers who arrived in the county before 1812 to judge whether this social experiment succeeded Colin Read explores the various ways that settlers acquired and transmitted land the nature of familial land sales and the place of women in owning land Consulting land records and genealogical research he finds that no landed elite endured in Upper Canada Loyalists owned only marginally more land than non Loyalists by 1851 and it was commonplace for latecoming settlers to eventually own land Yet early arrival was a significant determinant of later landholding and property size it mattered who settled first Land was the main source of wealth in early Canada This fine grained study sheds light on how it was acquired disposed and passed down through generations in the nineteenth century Although a landed aristocracy was never realized the colonial state's allocation of land to settlers laid the foundation for their social standing The Idea of Liberty in Canada during the Age of Atlantic Revolutions, 1776-1838 Michel Ducharme,2014-09-15 An argument for competing ideals of liberty as a motivation for the rebellions in Upper and Lower Canada Bluebloods & Rednecks Charles D. Anderson,1996 Battle of Windmill eastern Ontario counties of Leeds Grenville political violence in 1820 and 1830 Idea of Popular Schooling in Upper Canada Anthony Di Mascio,2012 A study of the popular movement and political agitation for educational reform in Upper Canada Promoters, Patriots, and Partisans Martin Brook Taylor,1989-01-01 During the nineteenth century the writing of history in English speaking Canada changed from promotional efforts by amateurs to an academically based discipline Professor Taylor charts this transition in a comprehensive history The early historians the promoters of the title sought to further their own interests through exaggerated accounts of a particular colony to which they had developed a transient attachment Eventually this group was replaced by patriots whose writing was influenced by loyalty to the land of their birth and residence This second generation of historians attempted both to defend their respective colonies by explaining away past disappointments and to fit events into a predictive pattern of progress and development In the process they established distinctive identities for each of the British North American colonies Eventually a confrontation occurred between those who saw Canada as a nation and those whose traditions and vistas were provincial in emphasis Ultimately the former prevailed only to find the present and future too complex and too ominous to understand Historians subsequently lost their sense of purpose and direction and fell into partisan disagreement or pessimistic nostalgia This abandonment of their role paved the way for the new professional breed of historian as the twentieth century opened In the course of his analysis Taylor considers a number of key issues about the writing of history the kind of people who undertake it and their motivation for doing so the intended and actual effects of their work its influence on subsequent historical writing and the development of uniform and accepted standards of professional practice

Popular Politics and Political Culture in Upper Canada, 1800-1850

Carol Wilton, 2000 In Popular Politics and Political Culture in Upper Canada 1800-1850 Carol Wilton shows us that ordinary Canadians were much more involved in the political process than previous accounts have led us to believe They demonstrated their interest in politics and their commitment to a particular viewpoint by active participation in the petitioning movements that were an important element of provincial political culture

Law, Mystery, and the Humanities

Logan Atkinson, Diana Majury, 2008-09-29 The trans disciplinary study of law and the humanities is becoming a more widespread focus among scholars from a range of disciplines Complementary in several major ways concepts and theories of law can be used to formulate fresh ideas about the humanities and vice versa Law Mystery and the Humanities a collection of essays by leading scholars is based on the hypothesis that law has significant contributions to make to ongoing discussions of philosophical issues recurrent in the humanities The philosophical issues in question include the role of rationality in human experience the problem of dissent the persistence of suffering and the possibility of transcendence In each of these areas law is used to add complexity and offer divergent perspectives thus moving important questions in the humanities forward by introducing the possibility of alternative analysis Ranging from discussions of detective fiction Chomsky's universal grammar the poetry of Margaret Atwood the Great Plague of London and more Law Mystery and the Humanities offers a unique examination of trans disciplinary potential
