Romanesque Art Andreas Petzold, 1995 Andreas Petzold examines medieval European art in the broader context of its relationship to the art of Byzantium and Islam tracing the influences among these cultures through trade and the Crusades He views Romanesque art in terms of the social structures that organized the medieval world church princely court peasant society discovering on the way the important role of women as artists and patrons the complex relationships among religious and secular institutions and the ways that sculpture architecture painting and other art forms developed in style and technique to express a world no longer Classical but not yet Gothic Roman Art in the Private Sphere Elaine K. Gazda, Anne E. Haackl, 1991 This is a stimulating book and should be compulsory reading for all students of Roman art Classical Review For all the authors attention to the ensemble a sense of the relation between the formal and the iconographic and the desire to historicize their material contribute to making this anthology unusual in its rigorous and creative attention to the way that art and architecture participate in the construction of the image of the Roman elite Art Bulletin Roman Art in the Private Sphere presents an impressive case for the social and art historical importance of the paintings mosaics and sculptures that filled the private houses of the Roman elite The six essays in this volume range from the first century B C E to the fourth century C E and from the Italian peninsula to the Eastern Empire and North African provinces The essays treat works of art that belonged to every major Roman housing type the single family atrium houses and the insula apartment blocks in Italian cities the dramatically sited villas of the Campanian coast and countryside and the palatial mansions of late antique provincial aristocrats In a complementary fashion the essays consider domestic art in relation to questions of decorum status wealth social privilege and obligation Patrons emerge as actively interested in the character of their surroundings artists appear as responsive to the desire of their patrons The evidence in private art of homosexual conduct in high society is also set forth Originality of subject matter sophisticated appreciation of stylistic and compositional nuance and philosophical perceptions of the relationship of humanity and nature are among the themes that the essays explore Together they demonstrate that Roman domestic art must be viewed on its own terms Elaine K Gazda is Professor of the History of Art and Curator of Hellenistic and Roman Antiquities at the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology University of Michigan A History of Roman Art Steven L. Eugene Kleinbauer, Medieval Academy of America, 1989-01-01 A collection of essays that reflect the breadth of twentieth century scholarship in art history Kleinbauer has sought to illustrate the variety of methods scholars have developed for conveying the unfolding of the arts in the Western world Originally published by Holt Rinehart and Winston 1971 Roman Architecture Janet DeLaine, 2024-05-09 Roman Architecture casts new light not only on many familiar monuments of the city of Rome but also on less well known examples from across the Roman empire Rome and its empire were fundamental to the development of western architecture and its forms and motifs remain significant elements of our own built environments Roman Architecture places the varied architecture of ancient Rome from its humble apartment blocks to its grand public structures within the broader context of Roman society It takes as its starting point the writings of the Roman architect Vitruvius as one voice in a broader contemporary debate about the nature and value of architecture What did the Romans themselves think architecture was for What was built by whom and why How was architecture represented in text and image The interplay of type and variation that are the hallmark Roman architecture are here traced back to the human actions and choices from which they originated Janet DeLaine explores how the desires of patrons for novelty and individuality were met by architects and builders working within the practical constraints of available materials and the moral prescriptions of religious and social norms to create new forms Ranging from early Rome to the late empire this volume casts new light on many familiar monuments of the city of Rome but also on less well known examples from across the empire Through an examination of the key types of buildings at the heart of Roman society and their decoration it reveals the symbolic meaning of architecture in terms of competitive power displays and commemoration and it explores how architecture helped to define being Roman at different times and in different places of the empire

The Representation of Space in Graeco-Roman Art Michael Koortbojian,2023-11-06 This book assesses the role of relief in the representation of space in Graeco Roman artistic practice and its study from Winckelmann to the mid twentieth century when Classical art developed as a theoretical discipline The role of relief in the history of ancient sculpture has long been acknowledged yet the problems posed by an engagement with the representation of space have not been a subject of specific and sustained inquiry Neither a conventional history nor a comprehensive historiography this book traces the study of relief of its formal character its artistic purpose its aesthetic significance and its historical treatment The contribution to scholarship is three fold 1 By means of a wide array of examples the book demonstrates that the visual strategies employed to represent space during the Graeco Roman period were a continuously evolving repertory tied to the refinement of techniques and the transformation of styles that those techniques brought into being 2 It examines ideas now commonplace based on scholarship now long neglected if not completely forgotten And 3 it reveals how competing interpretations of the representation of space in relief elaborated new approaches to the monuments and their representations
