Ruppel, 1998 Survey of the criticism devoted to Gottfried Keller the important nineteenth century writer in German The works of Gottfried Keller 1819 1890 rank alongside those of Goethe and Thomas Mann yet this volume is the first in any language to examine the critical assessment and scholarly expertise devoted to him ranging from the early stages of journalistic criticism to the present day Professor Ruppel begins by exploring the literary industry in the nineteenth century the literary marketplace the tastes of the reading public and the expectations of editors before going on to survey representative journalistic assessments of Keller's writing including critical correspondence from Keller's contemporaries Subsequent chapters examine in chronological order the most important milestones in Keller scholarship particularly twentieth century criticism and the Anglo American tradition There is also a brief history of the translations of Keller's works into English investigating some of the difficulties confronting English translators of Keller's poetically creative German. The study concludes with an overview of recent scholarly assessments covering the past twenty five years. A Catalogue of the Officers and Students of Washington University, for the Academic Year ... Washington University (Saint Louis, Mo.), 1916. The Anthem Companion to Max Weber is a study of the ideas and career of the German sociologist and founder of classical social theory. Including contributions by accomplished Weber scholars, this companion provides the latest scholarly interpretations of the sociologist's vast body of socioeconomic and political writings which continue to inspire new scholarship and debate on global politics, comparative religion, social class relationships, social science methods, and law and society. This study seeks to alter our understanding of Keller's realism by problematizing the act of reading within fiction. The story of reading in Keller's fiction is a self-conscious meditation on the schism between life and its literary representation and it emphasizes the incapacity of that representation to actually and substantially influence the life it is based on. This has consequences for the didactic writer. The act of reading here generally involves a collision between fiction and its other and a move or tragic failure to move toward an acceptance and affirmation of the non-correspondence between life and literature, a process that renders moral didacticism a quixotic project. This position runs counter to the prevailing view of Keller as a consciously didactic author who tried to create a credible copy of reality in order to revise and repair the real world by inspiring readers to make the depicted improvements in their nonfictional universe. Co-operative Bulletin Pratt Institute.
