Scottish architect Lawrence McKellan uproots his Edinburgh household and moves his wife two children and brother to the safety of Ireland's controversial neutrality. He purchases properties in the rural setting of County Mayo and sets his wife Helen up as a hotelier and his brother Harry as a gentleman farmer. While somewhat jarred by Lawrence's compulsory resettlement, the family adjusts quickly to the beauty of their surroundings and the charm and culture of the Irish people. Unfortunately, even Ireland's verdant countryside is marred by shades of grey. And when Lawrence joins British Intelligence, a shroud of secrecy soon entangles him, leaving Helen to battle inner turmoil and Harry to pursue his own agenda with severe consequences. Cooper O'Neil is Irish through and through. When he was only a child, his Catholic father, an ardent IRA supporter, was brutally killed for his beliefs, and his sister Sophie was marred for life in an ambush by a group of Protestant schoolgirls. The British had been a thorn in the side of Ireland for generations, causing Cooper more anguish by the time he reaches his teens than most people face in a lifetime. Now a hardened man with a steely determination to scrape British shite from Ireland's weathered boots, Cooper has more power than a man of his nature should probably yield. Shaped by his past, Cooper takes his pain and anger and sharpens them into a thorn of his own. When temptation and ambition pair with distance and deceit, the innocent and guilty are both driven to acts they never thought possible and consequences they never imagined.
