Eraldi, 2010-07-06 Sett Foster paid his dues now it's time for his enemies to pay theirs After a troubled past Sett Foster wants life to be easier With his Indian wife Ria and money coming in things could finally be going his way Then he finds a stray Indian pony carrying a child but the answer to their dream of having a family comes with a price and Sett is ready to pay with his own blood Emperor Norton's Early Years As An 1820s Settler Charles Featherstone, 2024-03-21 A wryly humorous telling of the British colonialization in South Africa told from the point of view of a not very successful family and the child that would become Emperor thousands of miles away Many think the patron saint of Discordianism a myth or his life absurdly exaggerated but they are wrong Reality is far stranger than fiction could ever be and Joshua Norton is the absolute proof a real life Don Quixote formed in tragedy and triumph scarred into a delusion of a better world by the violence of this one Long before he became Emperor of the United States Joshua Norton won his place in history as one of the 1820 Settlers in the British colonialization of the Cape Colony in today's South Africa This volume covers Joshua's upbringing as an 1820 settler in the newly formed Albany region in what would become the Eastern Cape It brings to life one of history's most turbulent periods as Dutch British Xhosa Khoi and Fingo all try to build a life on a land riven by constant war Read on for a tale of heroes and villains but mostly of people trying to survive where they can when all the odds are stacked against them and great political winds tear through their desperate lives The first volume of the definitive history of Norton I Emperor of the United States and Protector of Mexico Told with with a wry dramatisation it contains the most accurate and complete information on Joshua's early life in any book to date Experiences in Social Dreaming W. Griffiths,2024-11-11 This book explores the history practice and possibilities of writing about the lives of First Nations peoples in Australia as well as Aotearoa New Zealand North America and the Pacific This interdisciplinary collection recognises the limitations of Western biographical conventions for writing Indigenous long and short form biographies

Through a series of diverse life stories of both historical and contemporary First Nations figures this book investigates innovative ways to ameliorate the challenges we face in recovering the stories of Indigenous people and reimagining their lives in productive new ways. Many of the chapters in this collection are deeply reflective, aiming not just to relate the life story of an individual but also to reflect on the archival, intellectual and emotional journeys that biographers undertake in researching Indigenous biography. This volume will be of value to scholars and students interested in Indigenous Studies, biography, history, literature, creative writing, archaeology and colonial and postcolonial studies. Critical Dreaming Lilian Mengesha, 2025-05-20. Ways of knowing against colonialism. In the 1990s the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) and US and Canadian boarding residential schools practices led to an increase in cases of missing and murdered Indigenous women from the US-Mexico border, Guatemala, Canada and the United States. Indigenous artists aiming to recontextualize these state-sponsored instances of violence created works grappling with time, ancestry and relationality. Lilian Mengesha interprets the works of these artists within a decolonial context through an aesthetic frame she calls critical dreaming. Using methods from performance studies, gender studies and Indigenous studies, Critical Dreaming considers artists as expert world makers. Mengesha examines selected works by Lara Kramer, Regina Jos Galindo, Rebecca Belmore, Monique Mojica, LeAnne Howe and Sky Hopinka, demonstrating how each materializes alternative modes of experiencing time, making kin and communing with land. Mengesha argues that critical dreaming is a performance that advances material and embodied practices of survival, both individual and collective, to challenge colonial and nationalist discourses invested in a teleology of disappeared people, history and land. Her writing provides valuable insight into the intergenerational effects of settler colonialism on Indigenous communities throughout the Americas, looking at how artists build worlds anew through Indigenous ways of knowing and making inspired from the past and repurposed for the present. Critical Dreaming offers a resonant framework for understanding Indigenous embodied ways of knowing that work against colonial attempts to discredit or disappear forms of imagination, relationality and resistance connecting disparate Indigenous communities. This powerful book urges readers to recognize how Indigenous artists contribute to ongoing struggles against multiple forms of colonialism.

Since 2000 the online anthology Best New Zealand Poems has showcased the most exciting and memorable poetry produced in this country. Here for the first time is a selection of this work in book form.
