The Promise of Mediation Robert A. Baruch Bush, Joseph P. Folger, 2004-10-28 The award winning first edition of The Promise of Mediation published ten years ago is a landmark classic that changed the field's understanding of the theory and practice of conflict intervention That volume first articulated the transformative model of mediation which greatly humanized the vision of how the mediation process could help parties in conflict In the past decade the transformative model has proved itself and gained increasing acceptance It is now being used in such diverse arenas as workplace community family organizational and public policy conflicts among others In this new edition the authors draw on a decade of work in theory development training practice research and assessment to present a thoroughly revised and updated account of the transformative model of mediation and its practical application including a compelling description of how the field has moved toward increasing acceptance of the transformative model a new and clearer presentation of the theory and practices of transformative mediation with many concrete examples a new case study that provides a vivid picture of the model in practice with a commentary full of new information about how to use it effectively clarifications of common misconceptions about the model a vision for the future that shows how the model can coexist with other approaches and where the market for transformative mediation is emerging This volume is a foundational resource on transformative practice for both readers of the first edition and new readers including mediators facilitators lawyers administrators human resource professionals policymakers and conflict resolution researchers and educators More generally this book will strike a chord with anyone interested in humanizing our social institutions and building on a relational vision of society Nation-building and Identity Conflicts Ariel

Hernandez,2014-07-08 Ending identity conflicts through negotiated agreements is an intractable process that is embedded complexly in the nation building process Ariel Hernandez looks on the complexity of the nation building process in the Philippines and how its social and political context constrains the achievement of a peace agreement that would withhold new challenges as the process unfolds Mediation as one of the possible modes of intervention to resolve identity conflicts is taken as the self evident instrument to end the 40 year old conflict between the Filipino society at large and the Bangsamoro The analysis confirms that mediation and other types of intervention are contributing to the intractability of identity conflicts by bringing in further complexities in the negotiation process The conceptualization of stumbling blocks may provide knowledge based resources to develop strategies to facilitate the mediation process that allows negotiating parties to cope with the complexity of the bargaining table The SAGE Handbook of Conflict Resolution Jacob Bercovitch,Victor

Dynamics in Business Families Arist von Schlippe, Tom A. Rüsen, 2024-02-20 Conflicts within the owner circle or rather within the family of the family business are often the main cause of existential crises for family businesses The damaging effects of unchecked family conflicts affect two social systems the family business and the business family itself The impairment of the survival capability of the family business goes hand in hand with the reduced chance of constructive follow up communication between family members Once caught up in conflict communication it is extremely difficult for business families to get out of it without the help of external knowledge It is therefore surprising that the topic of conflict prevention in business families has so far been given relatively little attention Against this background this book takes a closer look at the topic of Conflicts in the Business Family and deals with a number of topics that are essential to understanding the subject the specific challenges and conflicts that business families typically face as well as practically proven methods of conflict resolution at different levels The content is based on the experiences that the two authors have gained in a variety of research projects conflict moderation and family strategic consulting projects over the past 18 years The key findings from this wealth of experience are now made available to the general public
