Privileging Difference Antony Easthope, 2017-03-14

Difference the key term in deconstruction has broken free of its rigorous philosophical context in the work of Jacques Derrida and turned into an excuse for doing theory the easy way Celebrating variety for its own sake Antony Easthope argues cultural criticism too readily ignores the role of the text itself in addressing the desire of the reader With characteristic directness he takes to task the foremost theorists of the current generation one by one including Edward Said and Homi Bhabha Donna Haraway Rosi Braidotti and Judith Butler In a final tour de force he contrasts what he calls the two Jakes Jacques Lacan and Jacques Derrida to bring out the way their respective theories need each other The book is vintage Easthope wide ranging fearless witty and a radical challenge to complacency wherever it is to be found A Critical and Cultural Theory Reader

Antony Easthope, Kate McGowan, 2004-01-01 When first published in 1992 The Critical and Cultural Theory Reader served the growing need for essays and extracts for the study of culture Now the second and expanded edition of this highly successful reader reflects the growing diversity of the field and includes thirteen new essays Technology, Monstrosity, and Reproduction in Twenty-first Century Horror K. Jackson, 2013-11-19

Through a wide spectrum of horror sub genres this book examines how the current state of horror reflects the anxieties in Western culture Horror films bring them to a mass audience and offer new figures for the nameless faceless antagonist that plagues us and provides material with which to build a different understanding of ourselves Postcolonial Translocations Marga Munkelt, Markus Schmitz, Mark Stein, Silke Stroh, 2013 The sites from which postcolonial cultural articulations develop and the sites at which they are received have undergone profound transformations within the last decades This book traces the accelerating emergence of cultural crossovers and overlaps in a global perspective and through a variety of disciplinary approaches It starts from the premise that after the spatial turn human action and cultural representations can no longer be grasped as firmly located in or clearly demarcated by territorial entities The collection of essays investigates postcolonial articulations of various genres and media in their spatiality and locatedness while envisaging acts of location as dynamic cultural processes It explores the ways in which critical spatial thinking can be made Productive Testing the uses and limitations of translocation as an open exploratory model for a critically spatialized postcolonial studies it covers a wide range of cultural expressions from the anglophone world and beyond literature film TV photography and other forms of visual art philosophy historical memory and tourism The extensive introductory chapter charts various facets of spatial thinking from a variety of disciplines and critically discusses their implications for postcolonial studies The Contributors essays range from theoretical interventions into the critical routines of postcolonial criticism to case studies of specific cultural texts objects and events reflecting temporal and spatial material and intellectual physical and spiritual mobility What emerges is a fascinating survey of the multiple directions postcolonial translocations can take in the future This book is aimed at students and scholars of postcolonial literary and cultural studies diaspora studies migration studies transnational studies globalisation studies critical space
