Family Fictions Christopher Flint, 2002-02 By revealing the investment of eighteenth century British prose fiction in contemporary debates about domestic ideology this book addresses the multiple ways in which traditional notions of the family were estranged reconstituted as novel concepts and then finally presented as national social norms It focuses on works by Aphra Behn Daniel Defoe Samuel Richardson Eliza Haywood Horace Walpole Laurence Sterne and Mary Wollstonecraft addressing a number of narratives that historians of the novel have overlooked while linking such better known works as Robinson Crusoe and Pamela to their often neglected sequels Challenging competing critical claims that the household either experienced a revolution in form or that it remained essentially unchanged the author argues that eighteenth century writers employed a set of complementary strategies to refashion the symbolic and affective power of bourgeois domesticity Whether these writers regarded the household as a supplement to such other social institutions as the Church or the monarchy or as a structure resisting these institutions they affirmed the family s central role in managing civil behavior At a time however when the middle class was beginning to scrutinize itself as a distinct social entity its most popular form of literature reveals that many felt alienated from the most intimate and yet explosive of social experiences family life Prose fiction sought to channel these disturbingly fluid domestic feelings yet was in itself haunted by the specter of unregulated affect Recovering the period s own disparate perceptions of household relations the book explains how eighteenth century British prose fiction which incorporates elements from conduct books political treatises and demographic material used the family as an instrumental concept in a struggle to resolve larger cultural tensions at the same time it replicated many of the rifts within contemporary family ideology

Emotions and the Making of Psychiatric Reform in Britain, c. 1770-1820 Mark Neuendorf, 2021-11-19 This book explores the ways which people navigated the emotions provoked by the mad in Britain across the long eighteenth century Building upon recent advances in the historical study of emotions it plots the evolution of attitudes towards insanity and considers how shifting emotional norms influenced the development of a humanitarian temperament which drove the earliest movements for psychiatric reform in England and Scotland Reacting to a culture of sensibility which encouraged tears at the sight of tender suffering early asylum reformers chose instead to express their humanity through unflinching resolve charging into madhouses to contemplate scenes of misery usually hidden from public view and confronting the authorities that enabled neglect to flourish This intervention required careful emotional management which is documented comprehensively here for the first time Drawing upon a wide array of medical and literary sources this book provides invaluable insights into pre modern attitudes towards insanity

A History of English Laughter, 2021-11-01 Is there a history of laughter Or isn't laughter an anthropological constant rather and thus beyond history a human feature that has defined humanity as homo ridens from cave man and cave woman to us The contributors to this collection of essays believe that laughter does have a history and try to identify continuities and turning points of this history by studying a series of English texts both canonical and non canonical from Anglosaxon to contemporary As this is not another book on the history of the comic or of comedy it does not restrict itself to comic genres some of the essays actually go out of their way to discover laughter at the margins of texts where one would not have expected it all in Beowulf or Paradise Lost or the Gothic Novel Laughter at the margins of texts which often coincides with laughter from the margins of society and its orthodoxies is one of the special concerns of this book This goes together with an interest in impure forms of laughter in laughter that is not the serene and intellectually or emotionally distanced response to a comic stimulus which is at the heart of many philosophical theories of the comic but emotionally disturbed and troubled aggressive and transgressive satanic and sardonic laughter We do not ask then what is comic but who laughs at and with whom where when why and how
