The New Yorker, 2002 Brian Howard Marie-J Lancaster, 2005 Brian Howard was expected to become one of the leading authors of his generation but instead he became a secondary character in the books of others Marie Jaqueline Lancaster's biography makes him at last the protagonist of his own highly entertaining story Packed with dishy reminiscences and extracts from Howard's letters and writings this book details the outrageous parties stunts and confrontations that were second nature to this ne'er-do-well Chronicling 30 years of waste and dereliction Lancaster captures a prototypical gay literary life perfect for anyone curious about gay history the 1920s modernism or the mystery of failed artistic promise From austere libraries in Oxford to seedy hotels in Amsterdam to darkened cinemas in Tangiers Howard lived and died precociously and most importantly as he pleased Brian Howard Portrait of a Failure is the next best thing to an invitation to one of his famous parties

The World of William Saroyan Nona Balakian, 1998 In this work the author tells how Saroyan transformed the short story by personalizing it and by loosening the structure of the novella form He went on to bring new life to the theater and to the telling of autobiography Better than that of any recent drama critic Balakian's chapters on the theater place Saroyan's plays in the larger framework of the American theater of his time and achieve the
