Packaging Law Europe Bailey Patricia M.,2019-01-04 First published in 1999 this volume responds to the 1991 enactment by the German government of its Packaging Ordinance which led to new or revised packaging legislation throughout the European Union Problems caused by this divergent legislation led to the enactment of the Directive on Packaging and Packaging Waste in late 1994 Unfortunately the imprecision of the Directive necessary to ensure its enactment has led to further disputes At the heart of these disputes is the classic struggle between the priorities of environmental protection and economic development This book analyses the implementation of the Directive by Member States and in particular issues such as the imposition of quotas on reusable containers the use of economic instruments and environmental agreements and competition issues and state aids The book enlightens readers to the current debates regarding packaging legislation which continue today despite the enactment of EU legislation      National Autonomy, European Integration and the Politics of Packaging Waste Markus Haverland,1999 This book examines the treatment of packaging waste how policy has changed and how waste is regulated It compares packaging waste policies in three major EU countries Germany the U K and the Netherlands Recent theories in comparative policy inform the analysis particularly the neo institutionalist approach which includes the notions of path dependency and policy learning Based on intensive empirical research the study shows the impact of EU processes on national policy traditions and identifies the factors that either trigger or constrain policy change and convergence The book is relevant for those interested in regulatory change and persistence in Europe the tensions between European integration and national traditions and autonomy and the interrelationship of environmental protection and the common market programme Students of law political science public policy comparative politics and European studies will benefit from this study as well as policy makers managers and environmentalists      State Power and Institutional Influence in European Integration Jonathan Golub,1996 This study traces the development of the recently adopted packaging waste directive in order to illuminate the role of various actors in the integration process While some of the findings about agenda setting and qualified majority voting presented in this study apply directly to the sector of environmental policy or specifically to the chosen case the broader conclusions suggest the need for additional case studies of EC legislation and offer a theoretical framework in which these studies may be used to test competing notions of European integration To this end the study uses lessons from the case of packaging waste to refine the ongoing debate between scholars who propose state centric models and those who advocate a view of Europe in which power is diffused to supranational institutions at the expense of state sovereignty      Common Goods Adrienne Héritier,2002-05-28 As European countries become more interdependent the provision of common goods increasingly must be organized across national boundaries levels of government and sectors In addition former adversaries in the public and private sectors must learn to collaborate rather than compete These changing paradigms call for new institutional and instrumental arrangements that move beyond existing modes of national governance Offering a unique focus on the emerging role of private actors this volume explores the evolving challenge of governing common goods in an increasingly transnational environment The first systematic analysis of institutional solutions for providing common goods this book shows how hierarchies established over centuries of nation state rule have become obsolete while negotiation and self regulation have grown in importance The contributors explore innovative solutions to the collective action problems countries encounter when clear lines of traditional authority dissolve

Autonomy without Collapse in a Better European Union ,2022-09-05 The European Union s history exhibits numerous episodes in which Member States have sought to re enforce their national autonomy in the face of deepening integration Efforts to re gain autonomy however are often accompanied by legitimate concerns that autonomy will lead to dis integration or will have wider destructive consequences The EU thus faces a dilemma Calls for autonomy cannot all be dismissed as mere populist rhetoric or national egoism but instead represent a legitimate questioning of the degree of uniformity that EU law and politics presently carry At the same time the fear that greater autonomy may carry dis integrative effects is also legitimate uniformity is not an accidental by product of the EU s construction but intrinsically related to its policy goals Giving too much room for autonomy might create an opportunity structure for the loss of collective goods deficits in problem solving and perhaps even to self destruction The EU requires autonomy but in doing so it must also avoid collapse Can it achieve it and if so how Autonomy without Collapse is devoted to exploring innovative answers to this question It draws together scholars in law and political science interested in exploring how to overcome the central dilemma of preserving sustainable yet real autonomy in the future European Union

REACH Beyond Borders Ondřej Filipec,2017-08-23 This book discusses how much other countries reflect the EU chemical regulation REACH Registration Evaluation Authorization Restriction of Chemicals in the context of Europeanization theory The main hypothesis verified in this book is that more trade with the EU means more Europeanization as the non EU companies exporting to the EU have an obligation to comply with EU rules according to the No data No Market REACH provision This book further points out that non EU companies voluntarily adopt EU standards while this change has yet to be reflected on the policy level in non EU countries mainly for economic reasons Exploring changes in national chemical regulatory policies among top chemical producers around the World brings new ideas into the process of Europeanization behind EU borders and provides useful material for academia regulatory experts and export oriented chemical industry

The Political Economy of Noncompliance Scott Nicholas Siegel,2011 Over the last sixty years states have signed treaties established international courts and other supranational institutions to achieve the benefits of international cooperation Nowhere has this been more successful than in the European Union European integration has produced one of the most intensely legalized regimes in the world Yet even in the European Union noncompliance of states often occurs This book explores the sources of and reasons for noncompliance and assesses why noncompliance varies across the Member States and over time by looking at the domestic politics of complying with international law The author uses examples from the history of economic integration in the EU in three countries and two different policy areas to demonstrate these mechanisms at work Publisher Effectiveness of Packaging Waste Management Systems in Selected Countries European Environment Agency, 2005 Packaging waste is an important and growing waste stream The amended Packaging and Packaging Waste Directive has recently been adopted and work is underway to develop EU thematic strategies on waste prevention and recycling and on the sustainable use and management of natural resources The Packaging and Packaging Waste Directive hereafter packaging directive is one of the few environmentally related directives to contain directly measurable quantitative targets It has now been in place for ten years and this is an opportune time to take stock of this important policy area The EEA has conducted a pilot study of the effectiveness of packaging waste management systems in five EU Member States with the aim of gaining practical and concrete experience of ex post policy effectiveness evaluation and to track progress in this policy area Packaging Europe Thierry Demey, 1996 Environment and Subsidiarity: National Legislation Versus the Internal Market? Anton Lensen, Carina Jorgensen, European Parliament.
