National Economic Planning What Is Left:

National Economic Planning Don Lavoie,1985-06-01 Don Lavoie argues that the radical Left's enthusiasm for planning has been a tragic mistake and that progressive social change requires the abandonment of this traditional view Lavoie argues that planning whether Marxism economic democracy or industrial policy can only disrupt social and economic coordination He challenges both radicals and their critics to begin reformulating our whole notion of progressive economic change without reliance on central planning National Economic Planning What is Left will challenge thinkers and policymakers of every political persuasion National Economic Planning Don C. Heesterman,2013-11-11 Forecasting Models for National Economic Planning Aart R. Heesterman,2012-12-06 This book is about the specification of linear econometric models and for this reason some important related fields have been deliberately omitted I did not want to discuss the problems of parameter estimation at least not in any detail as there are other books on these problems written by specialized statisticians This book is about the models themselves and macro economic models in particular A second related subject is the policy decision that can be made with the help of a model While I did write a chapter on policy decisions I limited myself to some extent because of my views on planning as such The logical approach to this problem is in terms of mathematical programming but our models and our ideas about the policies we want are too crude for its effective utilisation A realistic formulation of the problem should involve non linearities in an essential way the models I consider and most existing models are linear At the present state of econometrics I do not really believe in such a thing as the optimal plan The possible result of bad planning or no planning at all for instance massive unemployment sudden financial crises unused capital equipment or the production of unsalable goods is agreed to be undesirable Programming methods may of course be needed if only for having a systematic algorithm to find a solution that avoids this kind of obvious non optimality However the main emphasis is on forecasting models National-level Planning in Democratic Countries Rachelle Alterman,2001-01-01 Elizabeth A Kaye specializes in communications as part of her coaching and consulting practice She has edited Requirements for Certification since the 2000 01 edition Agricultural Economics Literature United States.
