National Economic Security Arthur Barto Adams, 1936 National Economic Security Frans Alphons Maria Alting von Geusau, Jacques Pelkmans, 1982-01-01 United States National Economic Security in a Global Market Raymond A. Gauger, John F. Kennedy School of Government. National Security Program, 1990 While large in scope the research incorporates macroeconomic trade and industrial competitiveness concerns within a national security context Connecting well understood economic debates about our nation's welfare to the ways our country formulates national security policy This paper gathers much of the current thinking in related fields and then presents a method of understanding the larger national security implications Our research is intended primarily for government officials and industry executives interested in gaining a broad understanding of this issue It is designed to provide a generalized way of thinking about foreign involvement and is not therefore an empirically based piece of econometric work National Economic Security Frans A. Alting von Geusau (Jhr.), John F. Kennedy Institute, 1980 The Economic Dimensions of National Security Carl Richard Neu, Charles Wolf, United States. Department of Defense. Office of the Secretary of Defense, Rand Corporation, 1994 The end of the Cold War and the associated dramatic changes in the geopolitical environment have led many observers to conclude that much of our past thinking about U S national security interests and policies is now outmoded and that a fundamental rethinking of these interests and policies is required In particular the notion is becoming widespread that economic factors and concerns will play a more prominent role in defining and pursuing U S national security objectives The authors aim in convening the conference was to advance understanding of the emerging economic dimensions of U S national security policymaking The aim of this report is the same It is meant as a contribution to the task of defining a useful frame of reference for what will undoubtedly be a continuing discussion of the relation between economics and national security Although it is not intended as a summary of conference proceedings this report draws heavily on the ideas and hypotheses put forward during the conference In accordance with the ground rules established at the conference the authors have not attributed any of the ideas noted in this report to particular conference participants They have tried to retain the exploratory and speculative tone of the conference discussions Economic Issues and National Security Klaus Knorr, Frank N. Trager, 1977 Designed to provide college and university presidents with an overview of distance education e learning or distributed learning Provides a general framework for understanding the key questions that distributed education poses to the higher education community Economic Security: Neglected Dimension of National Security ? National Defense University (U S), National Defense University (U.S.), Institute for National Strategic Studies (U S, Sheila R. Nesadurai, 2012-09-11 What is the relationship between globalization and economic security Globalisation and Economic Security in East Asia is an incisive new engagement with this important question that uses detailed conceptual exploration and fresh empirical analysis. Viewing traditional neorealist conceptions of economic security as overly narrow, this new study suggests that any conception of economic security in the contemporary era needs to also pay close attention to the nature of global capitalism and the insecurities it generates for societies and individuals. This uniquely open-ended approach to conceptualizing economic security is supported by the East Asian experience. The country case studies included here reveal that while economic security has largely been posed as one of ensuring sustainable economic growth and equitable social development, particularly following the 1997 to 1998 Asian financial crisis, other more realist conceptions of economic security have not become irrelevant. This is also an exploration of whether and how national, regional, and multilateral institutions, as well as non-state regional mechanisms, help policy makers meet the task of governing in the interests of economic security. This book will be of great interest to all students and scholars of international relations, international political economy of East Asia, globalization, and security studies.
