National Objectives And Project Appraisal In Developing Countries Development Centre Studies:

Special Committee of the Seventeenth Annual Meeting of the Board of Directors , National Transportation

Planning Adib Kanafani, Daniel Sperling, 2012-12-06 Soon after starting work on the development of a methodology for national transportation planning in Venezuela we realized the importance of an integrated management process for such an effort We also realized the absence in the literature of specific guidelines on how to manage and conduct a transportation planning effort The literature on the subject of national transportation planning is predominantly theoretical and technical in nature To a large extent the absence of literature on management and broad based methodological approaches reflects the limited and ad hoc nature of the experience in national transportation planning This book is an attempt to fill that gap The main objective of the book is to show one way by which a methodology for national transportation planning can be integrated into a process management framework It reports on the experience that the authors had in the Venezuelan case as well as in earlier national planning efforts The book is not intended as a theoretical discussion of planning Instead it adopts a particular theoretical stand and proceeds on that basis to develop a program for applying a specific methodology The intention is to leave as much of the details and elaborations of that methodology to the user This is motivated by two considerations The first is a pragmatic attempt to limit the scope of the book National Objectives and Project Appraisal in Developing Countries Hartmut Schneider, 1975

Urban low-income housing and development E.A. Wegelin, 2012-12-06 The research project of which the present study is the end result was initiated in late 1970 while I was affiliated with the Economisch Instituut voor de Bouwnijverheid Economic Institute for the Construction Industry Amsterdam the Netherlands This institution in association with the Urban Development Authority Kuala Lumpur Malaysia also supported fieldwork in Malaysia from early 1973 to spring 1975 This resulted in a report to the Malaysian government Wegelin 1975 which forms the basis of the present study Improvement and extension of the earlier report to mould the study in its present shape has been made possible by the financial support of the Stichting Wetenschappelijk Onderwijs in Economische en Sociale Aspecten van Bouwproductie en Bouwnijverheid Foundation for University Education in Economic and Social Aspects of Construction Amsterdam the Netherlands The support of the above institutions is gratefully acknowledged The study owes much to the pioneering work on low income housing in developing countries by Charles Abrams and has further been stimulated particularly by the contributions of Leland S Bums and John F C Turner in this field The recent development of comprehensive cost benefit appraisal methods for industrial projects in developing countries by Professor I M D Little and J A Mirrlees OECD and A K Sen P Dasgupta and S A Marglin UNIDO provided a challenge to apply similar methods in the area of low income housing Key to Economic Science , 1976 Catalog of the Melville J. Herskovits Library of African Studies, 1972 Urban Transport Planning (Routledge Revivals) Harry Dimitriou, 2013-12-19 Originally published in 1992 this book discusses a contemporary growth in environmental awareness reflected in an increasing concern about the pollution caused by motor cars The author considers the problem of congestion bringing traffic to a halt in the major cities and the increasingly controversial nature of contemporary transport planning Professor Dimitriou provides a thorough and incisive contemporary analysis and suggests some appropriate solutions for the future Project Evaluation Methodologies and Techniques Constantin G. Library,1979 Economics and the Real World Andrew M. Kamarck,2016-11-11 Drawing on a lifetime of distinguished work in economic research and policymaking Andrew Kamarck details how his profession can more usefully analyze and solve economic problems by changing its basic approach to research Kamarck contends that most economists today strive for a mathematical precision in their work that neither stems from nor leads to an accurate view of economic reality He develops elegant critiques of key areas of economic analysis based on appreciation of scientific method and knowledge of the limitations of economic data Concepts such as employment market and money supply must be seen as loose not exact Measurement of national income becomes highly problematic when taking into account such factors as the so called underground economy and currency differences World trade analysis is based on inconsistent and often inaccurate measurements Subtle realities of the individual social and political worlds render largely ineffective both large scale macroeconomics models and micro models of the consumer and the firm Fashionable cost benefit analysis must be recognized as inherently imprecise Capital and investment in developing countries tend to be measured in easy but irrelevant ways Kamarck concludes with a call for economists to involve themselves in data collection to insist on more accurate and reliable data sources to do analysis within the context of experience and to take a realistic incremental approach to policymaking Kamarck s concerns are shared by many economists and his eloquent presentation will be essential reading for his colleagues and for those who make use of economic research FAO Library List of Recent Accessions

Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1975 Transport Planning for Third World Cities (Routledge Revivals) Harry T. Dimitriou,2013-06-26 Cities within the developing world experience a form of urban development which is different to those in more industrialised countries Rates of growth are usually much more dramatic housing and transport are often provided informally and institutional support for urban management is also much weaker The crux of this book first published in 1990 lies in the idea that urban transport planning cannot be viewed in isolation from this wider development context Making special reference to a number of countries including Brazil India and Indonesia chapters discuss problems of urban transport planning deficiencies in the theory and practice of conventional transport planning and the emerging alternatives in the countries under examination This work addresses problems that are still of great concern to urban policy planners professionals and academics as well as students from the fields of development studies urban geography and planning architecture and civil engineering Planning and Evaluation for Community Water Supply and Sanitation Wouter T. Lincklaen Arriëns,1982 Development Centre Studies Uses and Abuses of Governance Indicators Oman Charles P.,Arndt Christiane,2006-07-26 This study helps users find their way through the jungle of governance indicators and shows how they tend to be widely misused both in international comparisons and in tracking changes in individual countries
