Robinson's Early Life

1 Jack Roosevelt Robinson was born on January 31, 1919, in Cairo, Georgia, into a family of sharecroppers. He was the youngest of five children born to Mallie (McGriff) and Jerry Robinson. Jackie's middle name was given to him in honor of former President Theodore Roosevelt, who died just 25 days before Robinson was born. Robinson's family moved to Pasadena, California, in 1920 after his father left the family.

Robinson's Career in Sports

2 In the spring of 1939, Robinson began his career in athletics as a football star for the University of California at Los Angeles. He was one of four black players on the Bruins' 1939 football team and became the school's first athlete to win varsity letters in four sports: baseball, basketball, football, and track. After that he became the first African-American player to play modern Major League baseball when he joined the Brooklyn Dodgers on April 15, 1947, breaking the color barrier. Black fans began flocking to see the Dodgers when they came to town, abandoning their Negro League. He was 28 years old at the time. In his first major league season he played first base, but later moved to second base. During his baseball career he threw with his right hand and also batted from the right side. In 10 major league seasons, he achieved a batting average of .311. He helped the Dodgers win six National League pennants and defeat the New York Yankees in the 1955 World Series. His career as a baseball player ended in January of 1957 when he retired after being traded to the New York Giants. His last Major League appearance was on October 10, 1956, for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Major Leagues

3 Robinson's promotion to base ball was mostly a positive experience, but the reception given to him by newspapers and white major league players was not always pleasant. Problems between the races was high in the Dodger clubhouse with some Dodger players saying they would sit out rather than play alongside Robinson. This way of thinking ended when Dodgers management took a stand for Robinson. Leo Durocher, the manager of the team at the time, told the team, "I do not care if the guy is yellow or black, or if he has stripes like a zebra. I'm the manager of this team, and I say he plays. What's more, I say he can make us all rich. And if any of you cannot use the money, I will see that you are all traded."
