Ancient Objects and Sacred Realms F. Kent Reilly, James F. Garber, 2010-01-01 Between AD 900 1600 the native peoples of the Mississippi River Valley and other areas of the Eastern Woodlands of the United States conceived and executed one of the greatest artistic traditions of the Precolumbian Americas Created in the media of copper shell stone clay and wood and incised or carved with a complex set of symbols and motifs this seven hundred year old artistic tradition functioned within a multiethnic landscape centered on communities dominated by earthen mounds and plazas Previous researchers have referred to this material as the Southeastern Ceremonial Complex SECC This groundbreaking volume brings together ten essays by leading anthropologists archaeologists and art historians who analyze the iconography of Mississippian art in order to reconstruct the ritual activities cosmological vision and ideology of these ancient precursors to several groups of contemporary Native Americans Significantly the authors correlate archaeological ethnographic and art historical data that illustrate the stylistic differences within Mississippian art as well as the numerous changes that occur through time The research also demonstrates the inadequacy of the SECC label since Mississippian art is not limited to the Southeast and reflects stylistic changes over time among several linked but distinct religious traditions The term Mississippian Iconographic Interaction Sphere MIIS more adequately describes the corpus of this Mississippian art Most important the authors illustrate the overarching nature of the ancient Native American religious system as a creation unique to the native American cultures of the eastern United States      Archaeology at Shiloh Indian Mounds, 1899-1999 Paul D. Welch, 2006 One hundred years of archaeological excavations at an important American landmark the Shiloh Indian Mounds archaeological site a National Historic Landmark The Shiloh Indian Mounds archaeological site a National Historic Landmark is a late prehistoric community within the boundaries of the Shiloh National Military Park on the banks of the Tennessee River where one of the bloodiest battles of the Civil War was fought in April 1862 Dating between AD 1000 and 1450 the archaeological site includes at least eight mounds and more than 100 houses It is unique in that the land has never been plowed so visitors can walk around the area and find the collapsed remains of 800 year old houses and the 900 meter long palisade with bastions that protected the village in prehistoric times Although its location within a National Park boundary has protected the area from the recent ravages of man riverbank erosion began to undermine the site in the 1970s In the mid 1990s Paul Welch began a four year investigation culminating in a comprehensive report to the National Park Service on the Shiloh Indian Mounds These published findings confirm that the Shiloh site was one of at least fourteen Mississippian mound sites located within a 50 km area and that Shiloh was abandoned in approximately AD 1450 It also establishes other parameters for the Shiloh archaeological phase This current volume is intended to make information about the first 100 years of excavations at the Shiloh site available to the archaeological community      Visualizing the Sacred George E.

Lankford, F. Kent Reilly, III, James F. Garber, 2014-05-23 The prehistoric native peoples of the Mississippi River Valley and other areas of the Eastern Woodlands of the United States shared a complex set of symbols and motifs that constituted one of the greatest artistic traditions of the pre Columbian Americas Traditionally known as the Southeastern Ceremonial Complex these artifacts of copper shell stone clay and wood were the subject of the groundbreaking 2007 book Ancient Objects and Sacred Realms Interpretations of Mississippian Iconography which presented a major reconstruction of the rituals cosmology ideology and political structures of the Mississippian peoples Visualizing the Sacred advances the study of Mississippian iconography by delving into the regional variations within what is now known as the Mississippian Iconographic Interaction Sphere MIIS Bringing archaeological ethnographic ethnohistoric and iconographic perspectives to the analysis of Mississippian art contributors from several disciplines discuss variations in symbols and motifs among major sites and regions across a wide span of time and also consider what visual symbols reveal about elite status in diverse political environments These findings represent the first formal identification of style regions within the Mississippian Iconographic Interaction Sphere and call for a new understanding of the MIIS as a network of localized yet interrelated religious systems that experienced both continuity and change over time      Archaeological Artefacts as Material Culture Linda Hurcombe, 2014-05-12 This book is an introduction to the study of artefacts setting them in a social context rather than using a purely scientific approach Drawing on a range of different cultures and extensively illustrated Archaeological Artefacts and Material Culture covers everything from recovery strategies and recording procedures to interpretation through typology ethnography and experiment and every type of material including wood fibers bones hides and adhesives stone clay and metals With over seventy illustrations with almost fifty in full colour this book not only provides the tools an archaeologist will need to interpret past societies from their artefacts but also a keen appreciation of the beauty and tactility involved in working with these fascinating objects This is a book no archaeologist should be without but it will also appeal to anybody interested in the interaction between people and objects

Mississippian Culture Heroes, Ritual Regalia, and Sacred Bundles David H. Dye, 2021-07-13 In Mississippian Culture Heroes Ritual Regalia and Sacred Bundles archaeologists analyze evidence of the religious beliefs and ritual practices of Mississippian people through the lens of indigenous ontologies and material culture Employing archaeological ethnographic and ethnohistoric evidence the contributors explore the recent emphasis on iconography as an important component for interpreting eastern North America's ancient past The research in this volume emphasizes the animistic nature of animals and objects erasing the false divide between people and other than human beings Drawing on an array of empirical approaches the contributors demonstrate the importance of understanding beliefs and ritual and the significance of investigating how people in the past practiced religion and ritual by crafting circulating using and ultimately decommissioning material items and spaces including ceramic effigies rock art sacred bundles shell gorgets stone figurines and symbolic weaponry

CRM, 2003 The Chattahoochee Chiefdoms John H. Blitz, Karl G. Lorenz, 2006-04-09 An overview and model of complex society in the prehistoric Southeast Along the banks of the lower Chattahoochee River the remains of ancient settlements are abundant including archaeological sites produced by Native Americans between 900 and 350 years ago and marked by the presence of large earthen mounds Like similar monuments elsewhere in the Southeastern United States the lower Chattahoochee River mounds have long attracted the attention of travelers antiquarians and archaeologists As objects from the mounds were unearthed occasionally illustrated and discussed in print attention became focused on the aesthetic qualities of the artifacts the origins of the remains and the possible relationship to the Creek Indians Beginning in the 20th century new concerns emerged as the developing science of archaeology was introduced to the region As many of the sites became threatened or destroyed by reservoir construction trained archaeologists initiated extensive excavations of the mounds Although classification of artifacts and sites into a chronological progression of cultures was the main objective of this effort a second concern sometimes more latent than manifest was the reconstruction of a past way of life Archaeologists hoped to achieve a better understanding of the sociopolitical organization of the peoples who built the mounds and of how those organizations changed through time Contemporary archaeologists while in agreement on many aspects of the ancient cultures debate the causes forms and degrees of sociopolitical complexity in the ancient Southeast Do the mounds mark the capitals of political territories If so what was the scale and scope of these ancient provinces What manner of society constructed the mound settlements What was the sociopolitical organization of these long dead populations How can archaeologists answer such
