Primal Scenes Literature Philosophy Psychoanalysis:

Primal Scenes Ned Lukacher, 1986 Primal Scenes is concerned with those elements in the thought of Freud and Heidegger which make us continue to regard them as our contemporaries. It seeks to reassert their radical potential which the author believes has been minimized as critics celebrate the radicality of Lacan, Derrida and others. Freud's Literary Culture Graham Frankland, 2000-06-05 This original study investigates the role played by literature in Sigmund Freud's creation and development of psychoanalysis. Graham Frankland analyses the whole range of Freud's own texts from a literary critical perspective, providing a comprehensive reappraisal of his life's work. Freud was steeped in classical European literature but seems initially to have repressed all literary influences on his scientific work. Frankland traces their re-emergence, examining in detail Freud's many literary allusions and quotations as well as the rhetoric and imagery of his writing. He explores Freud's own attempts at analysing literature, the influence of literary criticism on his approach to analysing patients, and his creation of psychoanalytical novels, quasi-literary fictions fraught with profoundly personal subtexts. Freud's Literary Culture sheds new light on a multi-faceted, contradictory writer who continues to have an unparalleled impact on our postmodern culture precisely because he was so deeply rooted in European literary tradition.

Toni Morrison's Fiction David L. Middleton, 2016-01-28 This collection of contemporary criticism explores her concern with racial and gender issues and analyzes her in relation to other major modern authors, her philosophical and religious speculations, and her preoccupation with the process of fiction making. These classics provide a broad look at critical argument about Toni Morrison's meanings and significance during the past 10 years. From the formative effects of learning one's Otherness as a result of majority perception to the apocalyptic implications of racial memory to the moral and psychologically constructive act of storytelling to the structural function served by improvisational jazz music to the imagery associated with both flight and naming to the uniquely female experience of community, major issues raised by Morrison's body of work are explicated here. Derrida Reads Shakespeare Alfano Chiara Alfano, 2020-02-14 Explores Jacques Derrida's distinctive approach to Shakespeare. Offers the first comprehensive and accessible account and discussion of Derrida's engagement with Shakespeare. Challenges the way we have traditionally come to think about the interdisciplinary relationship between literature and philosophy as well as literary genius. Contextualises Derrida's readings of Shakespeare within his wider philosophical project and discusses in how far they relate to or are distinct from his engagement with other dramatic or literary works. This book brings to light Derrida's rich and thought-provoking discussions of Shakespearean drama. Contextualising Derrida's readings of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, Hamlet, The Merchant of Venice and King Lear within his wider philosophical project, Alfano explores what draws Derrida to Shakespeare and what makes him particularly suitable for philosophical thought. The author also makes the case for Derrida's singular understanding of the relationship between philosophy and Shakespeare and his radical idea of what literary genius is. Representing Black Men Marcellus

The Sexual Politics of Time Susannah Radstone, 2007-12-03 Looking at a diverse range of texts including Marilyn French's The Women's Room Philip Roth's Patrimony the writings of Walter Benjamin and Fredric Jameson and films such as Cinema Paradiso Susannah Radstone argues that though time has been foregrounded in theories of postmodernism those theories have ignored the question of time and sexual difference The Sexual Politics of Time proposes that the contemporary western world has witnessed a shift from the age of confession to the era of memory In a series of chapters on confession nostalgia the memories of boyhood film and the memoir Susannah Radstone sets out to complicate this claim Developing her argument through psychoanalytic theory she proposes that an attention to time and sexual difference raises questions not only about the analysis and characterization of texts but also about how cultural epochs are mapped through time The Sexual Politics of Time will be of interest to students and researchers of time memory difference and cultural change in subjects such as Media and Cultural Studies Sociology Film Studies

Historical Review The Freudian Reading Lis Møller, Lis Møller, 2016-11-11 Selected by Choice magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title In The Freudian Reading Lis Møller examines the premises, procedures and objectives of psychoanalytic reading in order to question the kind of knowledge such readings produce. But above all she questions the role of Freud as master explicator. Although Freud has been seen as a great synthesizer, Møller contends that his significance as a reader lies elsewhere. For Møller, this significance lies in the way Freud presses his inquiry to the point where he encounters something he cannot explain or that he can only explain at the risk of overthrowing previous conclusions. Such moments of crisis occur repeatedly in Freud's work, causing him to swerve from his original train of thought or even to call into question the theoretical foundation of his interpretation. The dominant line of argument therefore is frequently punctuated with problems and questions. If we concentrate on these, Møller argues, we are forced to reconsider the traditional conception of a Freudian reading and to reassess our perceived notions of just what kind of reader Freud was. While The Freudian Reading is based on a wide range of Freud's writings, it concentrates on four central texts: Delusions and Dreams in Jensen's Gradiva, From the History of an Infantile Neurosis, The Uncanny and Constructions in Analysis. The discussion does not progress chronologically. Rather, it explores the ways in which these texts interact, how they reflect, comment on and contradict one another. The Freudian Reading is a concentrated, subtle analysis of Freud's interpretive practice, with special reference to his interpretations of literary texts. It will be of interest to scholars and students of literary theory and criticism, as well as to readers in the field of psychoanalysis.

Liquid Metal Sean Redmond, 2005-01-19 Liquid Metal brings together seminal essays that have opened up the study of science fiction to serious critical interrogation. Eight distinct sections cover such topics as the cyborg in science fiction, the science fiction city, time travel and the primal scene, science fiction fandom and the 1950s invasion narratives. Important writings by Susan Sontag, Vivian Sobchack, Steve Neale, J. P. Telotte, Peter Biskind and Constance Penley are included.

Psychotherapy: An Erotic Relationship David Mann, 2021-12-15 Psychotherapy: An Erotic Relationship challenges the traditional belief that transference and countertransference are merely forms of resistance that jeopardize the therapeutic process. David Mann shows how the erotic feelings and fantasies experienced by clients and therapists can be used to bring about a positive transformation. Combining extensive and lively clinical examples with theoretical insights and new research on infants, David Mann suggests that the development of the erotic derives from interactions between the parent and child and is seldom absent from the therapist-patient relationship. However, while the erotic always contains elements of past relationships, it also expresses hope for a different outcome in the present and future. Individual chapters explore the function of the erotic within the unconscious, erotic pre-Oedipal and Oedipal material, homoeroticism in therapy, sexual intercourse as a metaphor for psychological change, the primal scene in the transference and the difficulties of working with perversions. The book is as relevant now as it was when originally published. This Classic Edition contains a new introduction by David Mann summarizing his current ideas since this book was first published in 1997.

It brings the therapy setting alive offering clinicians both an accessible and deeper understanding of the interaction between erotic transference and countertransference it also gives an explicit picture of how these aspects of therapy can be used to enhance the therapeutic process It remains an essential resource for psychoanalysts psychotherapists and counsellors their clients and anybody with an interest in Eros desire or mental health issues Shell Shock and the Modernist

Imagination Wyatt Bonikowski, 2016-04-01 Looking closely at both case histories of shell shock and Modernist novels by Ford Madox Ford Rebecca West and Virginia Woolf Wyatt Bonikowski shows how the figure of the shell shocked soldier and the symptoms of war trauma were transformed by the literary imagination Situating his study with respect to Freud's concept of the death drive Bonikowski reads the repetitive symptoms of shell shocked soldiers as a resistance to representation and narrative In making this resistance part of their narratives Ford West and Woolf broaden our understanding of the traumatic effects of war exploring the possibility of a connection between the trauma of war and the trauma of sexuality Parade's End The Return of the Soldier and Mrs Dalloway are all structured around the relationship between the soldier who returns from war and the women who receive him but these novels offer no prospect for the healing effects of the union between men and women Instead the novels underscore the divisions within the home and the self drawing on the traumatic effects of shell shock to explore the link between the public events of history and the intimate traumas of the relations between self and other The Wolf Man's Burden

Lawrence Johnson, 2001 The Wolf Man was Sigmund Freud's most famous patient a man whose enigmatic childhood dream of being gazed at by wolves outside his bedroom window bedeviled the founding practitioners of psychoanalysis More than simply a rich source of imagery and meaning though the Wolf Man case might be interpreted as the primal scene of psychoanalysis itself Lawrence Johnson regards the creation of the psychoanalytic case study as the writing of two lives those of the analysand and the analyst so Freud's own biography and subjective viewpoint could hardly fail to bear a direct influence on the institution of psychoanalysis When Freud met the patient known as the Wolf Man Johnson maintains psychoanalysis was at an impasse because of Freud's inability to work through repressed material from his own childhood Freud overcame this impasse through a countertransference that cast his patient in the role of a rival for the control of psychoanalysis his means for vanquishing him set the terms for Freud's legacy to psychoanalysis Johnson offers a rigorous methodological framework for discussing the relationship between psychoanalytic writing and the lives of those who engage in it He fruitfully extends the work of Nicholas Abraham Maria Torok and Jacques Derrida into the realm of Freud's own life The result is both sophisticated psychobiography and psychoanalytic theory grounded firmly in historical lives Trauma and Media

Allen Meek, 2011-02-09 This book provides the first comprehensive account of trauma as a critical concept in the study of modern visual media from Freud to the present day looking at how the psychoanalytic theory of trauma was adapted by the cultural critics Walter Benjamin Theodor Adorno Roland Barthes Jacques Derrida and Slavoj Žižek Methods for the Study of Literature as Cultural Memory ,2022-06-08 In this volume collaborators from different universities all over the world explore a wide variety of methods for the study of literature as cultural memory In literature the past may be re constructed in various ways and in very diverse forms This immediately raises the question as to how one can describe and inventory the various discourses and metadiscourses of historical representation In what sense can the rhetoric of literary historiography itself contribute to literature s function as cultural memory Which methods of analysis are most appropriate for describing specific text types or genres as cultural memory What have been the pragmatic uses and the ethical merits of the stability and continuity that literature has often provided for European American Asian and African cultures What are the dilemmas they create for our teaching at the end of the twentieth century To all these questions a wide range of scholars here tries to find answers In thorough and highly original contributions they not only address theoretical problems but also engage themselves in practical analyses of specific works

Mourning Diana Adrian Kear, Deborah Lynn Steinberg, 2002-01-22 The death of Diana Princess of Wales on September 1 1997 prompted public demonstrations of grief on an almost unprecedented global scale But while global media coverage of the events following her death appeared to create an international community of mourning popular reactions in fact reflected the complexities of the princess s public image and the tensions surrounding the popular conception of royalty Mourning Diana examines the events which followed the death of Diana as a series of cultural political phenomena from the immediate aftermath as crowds gathered in public spaces and royal palaces to the state funeral in Westminster Abbey examining the performance of grief and the involvement of the global media in the creation of narratives and spectacles relating to the commemoration of her life Contributors investigate the complex iconic status of Diana as a public figure able to sustain a host of alternative identifications and trace the posthumous romanticisation of aspects of her life such as her charity activism and her relationship with Dodi al Fayed The contributors argue that the events following the death of Diana dramatised a complex set of cultural tensions in which the boundaries dividing nationhood and citizenship charity and activism private feeling and public politics were redrawn
