Concerning an Interview Had in 1844 with Joseph Smith ... Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Eastern States Mission,1889 The Rocky Mountain Saints Mrs. T. B. H. Stenhouse,1989 The Life of John Taylor Brigham Henry Roberts,1892 The History of Salt Lake City and Its Founders Edward William Tullidge,1850 Outlines of Ecclesiastical History Brigham Henry Roberts,1895 Liahona ,1907 The Life of John Taylor: Third President of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Brigham Henry Roberts,2020-09-28 The leading spirits whom the Prophet Joseph Smith gathered about him in his brief but glorious career were remarkable men Not remarkable for illustrious birth for they were of humble origin not for scholarly attainments for such were the conditions of their early life that scholastic education of a very high order was out of the question but they were remarkable for character that mysterious something which exists

independent of birth education or fortune It has become proverbial that all great movements all reformatations all revolutions must produce their own leaders and this is as true of the great work of the last days the establishment of the Church of Christ on the earth as it is of any other great movement Leaders in established usages and institutions political social or religious are very seldom converted to innovations They usually consider it to their interest to oppose changes especially those changes which from their very nature cast any shadow of doubt upon the correctness of existing customs or institutions with which they are connected Hence it happened that the Jewish rabbis the priests the scribes the members of the great Sanhedrin leaders in their nation did not accept the doctrines of Messiah and become the chief apostles seventies and elders of the new church On the contrary this class were the stubbornest opponents to the doctrines taught by the Son of God and His most implacable enemies It was the common people who heard Him gladly and from their number He chose the apostles who through the God given powers of the priesthood conferred upon them shook the old systems of morals and religion from their foundations Nor can it be doubted that the hand of the Lord is in this matter of choosing men to be His messengers His prophets and His rulers Many of them are chosen before they are born in the flesh The messenger that was to prepare the way for the coming of the Son of God John the Baptist was so chosen Jeremiah was ordained a prophet to the nations before he was born Cyrus the Great the war prince of Persia was selected to be the deliverer of Israel from Babylonian bondage more than a century before his birth Indeed we are given to understand from the revelations of God that from among the nobler class of spirits that dwell in His presence the Father hath chosen those who are to be His rulers From the very nature of things it must be necessary that men whose minds are unwarped by prevailing customs and traditions should be selected to establish a new order of religion of government or of society How could the Jewish priests and rabbis bound by long custom to a slavish adherence to the outward forms and ceremonies of the Mosaic ritual the spirit and purpose of which had long been made of no effect by the rubbish of false traditions open their minds to receive the larger and nobler doctrines of the gospel of Christ unmixed with the pomp and circumstance which they of that age and nation considered essential to religion Can men educated to an attachment for despotic government and whose interests are bound up with its maintenance be expected to look with favor on democratic principles or become the champions of a republic
