Remembering Our Past Studies In Autobiographical Memory:

Remembering Our Past David C. Rubin, 1999-02-13 This book reviews the latest research in the field of autobiographical memory Understanding Autobiographical Memory Dorte Berntsen, David C. Rubin, 2012-09-27 The field of autobiographical memory has made dramatic advances since the first collection of papers in the area was published in 1986 Now over 25 years on this book reviews and integrates the many theories perspectives and approaches that have evolved over the last decades A truly eminent collection of editors and contributors appraise the basic neural systems of autobiographical memory its underlying cognitive structures and retrieval processes how it develops in infancy and childhood and then breaks down in aging its social and cultural aspects and its relation to personality and the self Autobiographical memory has demonstrated a strong ability to establish clear empirical generalizations and has shown its practical relevance by deepening our understanding of several clinical disorders as well as the induction of false memories in the legal system It has also become an important topic for brain studies and helped to enlarge our general understanding of the brain

Autobiographical Memory Charles P. Thompson, Douglas J. Herrmann, Darryl Bruce, J. Don Read, David G. Payne, 2014-10-10 The organization of the first Society for Applied Research in Memory and Cognition SARMAC conference centered around two specifically identifiable research topics autobiographical memory and eyewitness memory These two areas long time staples on the menu of investigators of memory in more natural settings differ on a variety of dimensions perhaps most notably in their specific goals for scientific inquiry and application For many questions about memory and cognition that are of interest to scientific psychology there have been historical as well as rather arbitrary reasons for their assignment to the autobiographical or eyewitness memory fields Perhaps as a result of differing historical orientations the first volume's seven autobiographical memory chapters focus upon the qualities or types of recall from research participants whereas the seven chapters in the eyewitness memory volume generally focus upon the quantity a concern for completeness and accuracy of recall This interest in the ultimate end product and its application within the legal process in general encourages eyewitness memory investigators to modify their testing procedures continually in an attempt to gain even more information from participants about an event Indeed several of the eyewitness memory chapters reflect such attempts Beyond the specific contributions of each chapter to the literature on autobiographical and eyewitness memory the editors hope that the reader will come away with some general observations the autobiographical and eyewitness memory fields are thriving these two fields are likely to remain center stage in the further investigation of memory in natural contexts although the autobiographical and eyewitness memory chapters have been segregated in these two volumes the separation is often more arbitrary than real and connections between the two areas abound the two research traditions are entirely mindful of fundamental laboratory methods research and theory sometimes drawing their research inspirations from that quarter and the two fields though driven largely by everyday memory concerns can contribute to a more basic understanding of memory at both an empirical and a theoretical level Handbook of Self-Knowledge Simine Vazire, Timothy D. Wilson, 2012-05-21 This authoritative handbook reviews the state of the science of self knowledge a key emerging area in psychology Leading investigators describe innovative theory and research that is shedding new light on how and how accurately people perceive their own traits thoughts feelings behavior and relationships Coverage encompasses the behavioral mental biological and social structures that underlie self knowledge approaches to studying self beliefs in specific domains and the motives and biases that influence accuracy The volume explores the personal and societal benefits of self knowledge and also considers possible ways to enhance it Recovered Memories and False Memories Martin A. Conway, 1997 The question of whether memories can be lost particularly as a result of trauma and then recovered through psychotherapy has polarised the field of memory research This is the first volume to bring together leading memory researchers and clinicians with the aiming of facilitating a resolution to this question The volume offers a unique and timely summary of the theories of memory recovery and how false memories may be created Some of the first research relating to the phenomenal characteristics of memory recovered is reported in detail suggesting important avenues for new research Theories of autobiographical memory implicit memory reminiscence and the effects of repeated recall on memory are included Recovered memories and false memories provides the most current and authoritative thinking in this area and will be an essential sourcebook for memory researchers and psychotherapists Human Being Jocelyn Bryan, 2016-06-27 Jocelyn Bryan provides a psychological perspective on key aspects of human nature and behaviour drawing on recent research and reflect on the issues this raises for theology and ministry The aim is to introduce theology students those studying practical theology and those engaged in ministerial formation or ministry to the significant current research in psychology which will deepen understanding of some of the core aspects of human nature The interdisciplinary nature of the exercise aims to model the benefits of such an approach for both theology and ministerial practice and as such the book aims to cross traditional boundaries The objective is to introduce the reader to new fields of academic psychology beyond those of counselling and psychoanalysis dated personality psychology and the popular psychology which is often referred to in publications in the area of ministerial practice and enable the reader to engage with recent psychological research and developments Bilingual Minds Aneta Pavlenko, 2006-01-01 Do bi and multilinguals perceive themselves differently in their respective languages Do they experience different emotions How do they express emotions and do they have a favorite language for emotional expressions How are emotion words and concepts represented in the bi and multilingual lexicons This ground breaking book opens up a new field of study bilingualism and emotions and provides intriguing answers to these and many related questions Cognition, Aging and Self-Reports Norbert Schwarz, Denise Park, Barbel Knauper, Seymour Sudman, 1998-09-28 This text provides an overview of age related changes in cognitive functioning and explores the implications of these changes for the self report of attitudes and behaviours Psychotherapy and Religion in Japan Chikako Ozawa-de Silva, 2006-09-27 This book based on original anthropological fieldwork provides a detailed ethnography of Naikan in practice Memory in Mind and Culture Pascal Boyer, James V. Wertsch, 2009-06-08 This text introduces students scholars and interested educated readers to the issues of human memory broadly considered encompassing both individual memory collective remembering by societies and the construction of history The book is organised around several major questions How do memories construct our past How do we build shared collective memories How does memory shape history This volume presents a special perspective emphasising the role of memory processes in the construction of self identity of shared cultural norms and concepts and of historical awareness Although the results are fairly new and the techniques suitably modern the vision itself is of course related to the work of such precursors as Frederic Bartlett and Aleksandr Luria who in very different ways represent the starting point of a serious psychology of human culture
