Saxon Identities, AD 150-900 Robert Flierman, 2017-07-13 This study is the first up to date comprehensive analysis of Continental Saxon identity in antiquity and the early middle ages Building on recent scholarship on barbarian ethnicity this study emphasises not just the constructed and open ended nature of Saxon identity but also the crucial role played by texts as instruments and resources of identity formation This book traces this process of identity formation over the course of eight centuries from its earliest beginnings in Roman ethnography to its reinvention in the monasteries and bishoprics of ninth century Saxony Though the Saxons were mentioned as early as AD 150 they left no written evidence of their own before c 840 Thus for the first seven centuries we can only look at the Saxons through the eyes of their Roman enemies Merovingian neighbours and Carolingian conquerors Such external perspectives do not yield objective descriptions of a people but rather reflect an ongoing discourse on Saxon identity in which outside authors described who they imagined wanted or feared the Saxons to be dangerous pirates noble savages bestial pagans or faithful subjects Significantly these outside views deeply influenced how ninth century Saxons eventually came to think about themselves using Roman and Frankish texts to reinvent the Saxons as a noble and Christian people

The Roman Occupation of Britain and its Legacy Rupert Jackson, 2020-09-03 This book tells the fascinating story of Roman Britain beginning with the late pre Roman Iron Age and ending with the province's independence from Roman rule in AD 409 Incorporating for the first time the most recent archaeological discoveries from Hadrian's Wall London and other sites across the country and richly illustrated throughout with photographs and maps this reliable and up to date new account is essential reading for students non specialists and general readers alike Writing in a clear readable and lively style with a satirical eye to strange features of past times Rupert Jackson draws on current research and new findings to deepen our understanding of the role played by Britain in the Roman Empire deftly integrating the ancient texts with new archaeological material A key theme of the book is that Rome's annexation of Britain was an imprudent venture motivated more by political prestige than economic gain such that Britain became a trophy province unable to pay its own way However the impact that Rome and its provinces had on this distant island was nevertheless profound huge infrastructure projects transformed the countryside and means of travel capital and principal cities emerged and the Roman way of life was inseparably absorbed into local traditions Many of those transformations continue to resonate to this day as we encounter their traces in both physical remains and in civic life

St Peter-On-The-Wall Johanna Dale, 2023-05-15 The Chapel of St Peter on the Wall built on the ruins of a Roman fort dates from the mid seventh century and is one of the oldest largely intact churches in England It stands in splendid isolation on the shoreline at the mouth of the Blackwater Estuary in Essex where the land meets and interpenetrates with the sea and the sky This book brings together contributors from across the arts humanities and social sciences to uncover the pre modern contexts and modern resonances of this medieval building and its landscape setting The impetus for this collection was the recently published designs for a new nuclear power station at Bradwell on Sea which if built would have a significant impact on the chapel and its landscape setting St Peter on the Wall highlights the multiple ways in which the chapel and landscape are historically and archaeologically significant while also drawing attention to the modern importance of Bradwell as a place of Christian worship of sanctuary and of cultural production In analysing the significance of the chapel and surrounding landscape over more than a thousand years this collection additionally contributes to wider debates about the relationship between space and place and particularly the interfaces between both medieval and modern cultures and also heritage and the natural environment

Geotechnical Engineering for the Preservation of Monuments and Historic Sites III Renato Lancellotta, Carlo Viggiani, Alessandro Flora, Filomena de Silva, Lucia Mele, 2022-06-15 The conservation of monuments and historic sites is one of the most challenging problems facing modern civilization It involves inextricable patterns factors belonging to different fields cultural humanistic social technical economical administrative and the requirements of safety and use appear to be or often are in conflict with the respect of the integrity of the monuments The complexity of the topic is such that a shared framework of reference is still lacking among art historians architects structural and geotechnical engineers The complexity of the subject is such that a shared frame of reference is still lacking among art historians architects architectural and geotechnical engineers And while there are exemplary cases of an integral approach to each building element with its static and architectural function as a material witness to the culture and construction techniques of the original historical period there are still examples of uncritical reliance on modern technology leading to the substitution from earlier structures to new ones preserving only the iconic look of the original monument Geotechnical Engineering for the Preservation of Monuments and Historic Sites III collects the contributions to the eponymous 3rd International ISSMGE TC301 Symposium Naples Italy 22-24 June 2022 The papers cover a wide range of topics which include Principles of conservation maintenance strategies case histories The knowledge investigations and monitoring Seismic risk site effects soil structure interaction Effects of urban development and tunnelling on built heritage Preservation of diffuse heritage soil instability subsidence environmental damages The present volume aims at geotechnical engineers and academics involved in the preservation of monuments and historic sites worldwide

Imperial Rome AD 284 to 363 Jill Harries, 2012-03-07 This book is about the reinvention of the Roman Empire during the eighty years between the accession of Diocletian and the death of Julian How had it changed The emperors were still warriors and expected to take the field Rome was still the capital at least symbolically There was still a Roman senate though with new rules brought in by Constantine There were still provincial governors but more now and with fewer duties in smaller areas and military command was increasingly separated from civil jurisdiction and administration The neighbours in Persia Germania and on the Danube were more assertive and better organised which had a knock on effect on Roman institutions The achievement of Diocletian and his successors down to Julian was to create a viable apparatus of control which allowed a large and at times unstable area to be policed defended and exploited The book offers a different perspective on the development often taken to be the distinctive feature of these years namely the rise of Christianity Imperial endorsement and patronage of the Christian god and the expanded social role of the Church are a significant prelude to the Byzantine state The author argues that the reigns of the Christian supporting Constantine and his sons were a foretaste of what was to come but not a complete or coherent statement of how Church and State were to react with each other
