Roman Pottery Report On The Excavation:

Journal of Roman Pottery Studies Steven Willis,2021-07-07 The Journal of Roman Pottery Studies continues to present a range of important new research in the field by both established and early career scholars Volume XVIII has a strong theme on pottery production with papers on kiln sites mortaria and late Roman pottery production in East Anglia and at a small town in Belgium A major new third century assemblage from civitas Cananefatium in South Holland is presented The second part of an important gazetteer of less common samian ware fabrics and types in northern and western Britain covers fabrics from Central and East Gaul

Journal of Roman Pottery Studies Volume 20 Eniko Hudak,2024-01-15 The latest issue of long running highly regarded Journal this issue focuses on new methodological approaches and initiatives alongside reports on new discoveries at major pottery production centres The new volume of the long running Journal of Roman Pottery Studies will include conference proceedings of the 2019 conference held at Atherstone Warwickshire and the 50th anniversary conference of the Study Group for Roman Pottery held online with Newcastle University Papers reflect on recent advances in methodological approaches and their applications the past and future role of the society and new initiatives in archiving policies and their implications It will also contain a number of papers outside these conferences that focus on pottery production notably of colour coated wares in Lincoln and in the province of Noricum as well as a report on the glass working furnace discovered alongside the pottery production kilns at Mancetter Hartshill Book reviews and obituaries are also included

Excavations in the City of David, Jerusalem (1995-2010) Ronny Reich,Eli Shukron,2021-09-15 The City of David more specifically the southeastern hill of first and second millennium BCE Jerusalem has long captivated the imagination of the world Archaeologists and historians biblical scholars and clergy Christians Muslims and Jews and tourists and armchair travelers from every corner of the globe to say nothing of politicians of all stripes look to this small stretch of land in awe amazement and anticipation In the City of David in the ridge leading down from the Temple Mount hardly a stone has remained unturned Archaeologists have worked at a dizzying pace digging and analyzing But while preliminary articles abound there is a grievous lack of final publications of the excavations a regrettable limitation on the ability to fully integrate vital and critical results into the archaeological reconstruction of ancient Jerusalem Excavations of the City of David are conducted under the auspices of the Israel Antiquities Authority The Authority has now partnered with the Center for the Study of Ancient Jerusalem and its publication arm the Ancient Jerusalem Publication Series for the publication of reports that are written and designed for the scholar as well as for the general reader Excavations in the City of David APJ 1 is the first volume in this series

Excavation of the Iron Age, Roman and Medieval settlement at Gorhambury, St Albans David S Neal,Angela Wardle,Jonathan Hunn,2012-01-15 Gorhambury just north of Verulamium was the site of a substantial Roman villa complex which was excavated between 1972 and 1982 as part of a programme designed to test the interrelationships between villa sites in the Verulamium area and to examine trends in their growth decline and prosperity The villa was found to have grown out of a settlement belonging to the late Iron Age A series of ditches of this phase enclosed an aisled barn a nine post granary and a circular house these were the beginnings of a sequence of structures on the same spot which show increasing signs of Roman influence all of which lay within the limits of the farmstead established at this early period Timber buildings of the first half of the first century were followed around AD100 by a small but luxurious villa rebuilt in the late second century and thereafter in a gradual decline until its apparent abandonment around AD 350 Work on virtually the whole of the farmstead area has enabled a full sequence of plans of the main houses and all the ancillary structures including barns subsidiary housing and bath houses to be presented in the report The catalogue of finds is an attempt to show the full range of material recovered from this working farmstead

Roman Pottery in the Archaeological Record J. Theodore Peña, 2007-04-30 This book examines how Romans used their pottery and the implications of these practices on the archaeological record It is organized around a flow model for the life cycle of Roman pottery that includes a set of eight distinct practices manufacture distribution prime use reuse maintenance recycling discard reclamation J Theodore Pe a evaluates how these practices operated how they have shaped the archaeological record and the implications of these processes on archaeological research through the examination of a wide array of archaeological textual representational and comparative ethnographic evidence The result is a rich portrayal of the dynamic that shaped the archaeological record of the ancient Romans that will be of interest to archaeologists ceramicists and students of material culture

Between Peak and Plain: Excavations on a Multiperiod Site at Mellor, Stockport, 1998-2009 Peter Arrowsmith, 2025-03-20 This book details 12 seasons of excavations at Mellor Stockport revealing a multiperiod site from the Mesolithic to post medieval periods Key finds include Iron Age enclosures medieval hall remains Mesolithic lithics and Romano British artefacts all contextualized within the wider region

Romano-British Settlement and Cemeteries at Mucking Sam Lucy, Christopher Evans, 2016-11-30 Excavations at Mucking Essex between 1965 and 1978 revealed extensive evidence for a multiphase rural Romano British settlement perhaps an estate center and five associated cemetery areas 170 burials with different burial areas reserved for different groups within the settlement The settlement demonstrated clear continuity from the preceding Iron Age occupation with unbroken sequences of artefacts and enclosures through the first century AD followed by rapid and extensive remodeling which included the laying out a Central Enclosure and an organized water supply with wells accompanied by the start of large scale pottery production After the mid second century AD the Central Enclosure was largely abandoned and settlement shifted its focus more to the Southern Enclosure system with a gradual decline though the 3rd and 4th centuries although continued burial pottery and artefactual deposition indicate that a form of settlement continued possibly with some low level pottery production Some of the latest Roman pottery was strongly associated with the earliest Anglo Saxon style pottery suggesting the existence of a terminal Roman settlement phase that essentially involved an Anglo Saxon community Given recent revisions of the chronology for the early Anglo Saxon period this casts an intriguing light on the transition with radical implications for understandings of this period Each of the cemetery areas was in use for a considerable length of time Taken as a whole Mucking was very much a component place complex it was its respective parts that fostered its many cemeteries whose diverse rites reflect the variability and roles of the settlement s evidently varied inhabitants Aspects of Industry in Roman Yorkshire and the North Pete Wilson, Jennifer Price, 2003-03-27 At the frontiers of the Roman Empire military settlements had a profound influence on local crafting traditions Legions were not just fighting units they contained a large number of craftsmen and the fortress would have been a centre of manufacturing activity A timber legionary fortress for example required vast numbers of nails many of which would have been made by legionary smiths on site and an army of thousands would require many more pots shoes and tents than could be produced by local domestic potters and leather workers But can all developments in local craft and industry be seen as a result of the appearance of the Roman army The ten papers in this volume focus on craft production in Roman Yorkshire and the evidence for the role of the army in local manufacturing activities Several papers examine broad questions surrounding the organisation and scale of production in urban and rural areas Others consider the local evidence for individual materials and production processes including those associated with pottery glass copper alloys non ferrous metals leather jet and building stone Reports of the Research Committee of the Society of Antiquaries of London ,1916 Proceedings of the Leeds Philosophical and Literary Society, Literary and Historical Section Leeds Philosophical and Literary Society, 1925

Hadrian's Wall Tony Wilmott, 2013-04-15 From 1976 to 2000 English Heritage archaeologists undertook excavation and research on Hadrian s Wall This book reports on these findings and includes the first publication of the James Irwin Coates archive of drawings of Hadrian Wall made in 1877 96 The Towns of Roman Britain John Wachter, 2020-08-18 This book aims to examine and define the functions of towns in Roman Britain and to apply the definition so formed to Romano British sites to consider the towns foundation political status development and decline and to illustrate the town s individual characters and their surroundings Iron Age and Roman Settlement at Highflyer Farm, Ely, Cambridgeshire James Fairclough, 2021-09-02 This volume presents the results of archaeological work carried out by MOLA Museum of London Archaeology at Highflyer Farm in 2018 Remains dating from the Neolithic to the post medieval period were recorded with most of the activity occurring between the early Iron Age and late Roman periods Julia Velva, A Roman Lady from York Patrick Ottaway, 2021-05-30 An intriguing examination of what we can learn about life in Roman Britain using one woman s third century tombstone as a starting point The tombstone of Julia Velva one of the best preserved examples from Roman Britain was found close to a Roman road just outside the center of York Fifty years old when she died in the early third century Julia Velva was probably from a wealthy family able to afford a fine monument Patrick Ottaway uses the tombstone as the starting point to investigate what the world she lived in was like Drawing on the latest archaeological discoveries and scientific techniques the author describes the development of Roman York s legionary fortress civilian town and surrounding landscape He also looks at manufacturing and trade and considers the structure of local society along with the latest analytical evidence for people of different ethnic backgrounds Aspects of daily life discussed include literacy costume cosmetics and diet There are also chapters dedicated to the abundant York evidence for religion and burial customs This book presents a picture of what one would have found on the edge of a great empire at a time when York itself was at the height of its importance With dozens of photographs specially prepared plans and illustrations this is an excellent study of one of Roman Britain's most important places

Brickstamps of Constantinople Jonathan Bardill, 2004 Brickstamps of Constantinople is the first major catalogue and analysis of stamped bricks manufactured in Constantinople and its vicinity in the Late Roman and Early Byzantine periods The text discusses the organization of the brickmaking industry the purpose of brickstamping and establishes for the first time a chronology for the brickstamps On the basis of the conclusions dates are proposed for previously undated buildings in the city and revised dates are given for other monuments

Corbridge M C Bishop, J N Dore, 2014-06-30 Corbridge some 4km south of Hadrian's Wall was the site of an important Roman river crossing From the mid 80s to about 160s AD this was protected by a series of forts which underlie the remains of the later garrison town now visible on the site This volume presents the results of excavations carried out between 1947 and 1980 beneath and around the later masonry buildings which have helped to reveal the complex history of the sequence of mainly earth and timber forts which preceded them After an introduction which describes how the analysis of excavation data collected over many seasons work has been undertaken and summarising previous work on the site a major new consideration of the crop mark evidence for the site is presented There follows an examination of the site covering the fort buildings area by area principia praetorium barracks defences and other areas The evidence is complex and the separate phases of development of each area are fully illustrated A selection of finds illustrated in details and chosen for their stratigraphic relevance or intrinsic value is studied in a series of specialist reports The conclusion explores a new interpretation of the earlier phases of fort occupation at Roman Corbridge

British and Irish Archaeology, 1994

From Coast to Fen: Archaeology in a Dynamic Landscape Claire Christie, Joshua T. Hogue, 2025-07-18 Excavations across East Lincolnshire reveal prehistoric Iron Age Roman and post medieval settlements saltmaking and industrial activity shaped by changing landscapes The area between Anderby Creek and Bicker Fen Lincolnshire to the west of the Lincolnshire Wolds represents a dynamic landscape both in terms of its natural and human aspects This volume presents the results of an extensive programme of archaeological excavation undertaken by Headland Archaeology UK Ltd and Allen Archaeology Ltd from 2018 to 2019 where a total of 15 sites were excavated The excavations uncovered a panoply of remains spanning the prehistoric through to modern periods providing important insights into changing patterns of occupation and the way this diverse landscape was utilised As evidenced through the archaeological works the area saw limited activity during the early prehistoric period in part reflecting the prevailing environmental conditions in which most of the area was inundated Among the earliest recorded finds was an enigmatic middle Bronze Age timber structure as well as a copper alloy axe. During the Roman period there is evidence for an expansion in activity across the Scheme with formerly inundated areas becoming accessible. Activity within the northern half of the Scheme was focused upon salt production. Two of these sites were dated to the late Roman period, contrary to the prevailing notion that the salt industry in this region had declined by the mid 2nd century AD. Within the southern half of the Scheme were several Roman farmsteads, some featuring timber buildings. Notable among these was an unusual post built moated structure. From these sites a range of artefactual and environmental data was collected, providing important insights into the nature of agricultural regimes. Evidence of medieval and post medieval activity was also uncovered, providing important insights into the development of rural settlement against a backdrop of landscape and environmental changes. Evidence of late to post medieval clay extraction and brick manufacture was also identified. The Towns of Roman Britain, 2017-07-05. This edition of the text has been rewritten and re-illustrated to take account of the extensive new excavations and interpretations that have taken place since the book was first published twenty years ago. The central section of the text covers the origin, development, public and private buildings, fortifications, character and demise of each of the twenty-one major towns of the province: the provincial capital of London; the coloniae Colchester, Lincoln, Gloucester and York; the first civitas capitals Canterbury, Verulamium and Chelmsford; from client kingdoms to civitas: Caister by Norwich, Chichester, Silchester and Winchester; Flavian expansion: Cirencester, Dorchester, Exeter, Leicester and Wroxeter; and Hadrianic stimulation: Caerwent, Carmarthen, Brough on Humber and Aldborough. The introductory chapters address the general questions of definition and urbanization, while the concluding chapter examines the reasons for the decay and final demise. The Legionary Fortress at Wroxeter

Graham Webster, 2014-06-30. The Roman legionary fortress at Wroxeter, Viroconium Cornoviorum, was built on a strategic crossing point on the River Severn. Though the site of the Roman town had long been known through the presence of upstanding ruins, the major excavations reported here have shown how the town plan was dominated by the underlying fortress. This fortress had been established by Legio XIV c. AD 60 and had then been partially rebuilt c. AD 66 when the legion was replaced by Legio XX. The fortress was downgraded in the late 70s to become a depot for stores before final abandonment c. AD 90. The excavations produced extensive evidence for the laying out and construction of the legionary earth and timber defences and of an area within the fortress to the north of the via praetoria, where mess halls, barrack blocks and a storehouse were found, as well as considerable quantities of coins, metalwork, pottery and glass.
