

The background image shows a scene of ancient Roman ruins. On the left, there is a long, low wall made of large stone blocks. In the center, a path leads towards a small, partially ruined structure with columns. To the right, several tall, fluted columns stand, some of which are part of a larger, more complex structure. The sky is filled with dramatic, dark clouds, and the overall lighting is warm, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The text is overlaid on the upper half of the image.

Richard, 2010-04-16 This engaging yet deeply informed work not only examines Roman history and the multitude of Roman achievements in rich and colorful detail but also delineates their crucial and lasting impact on Western civilization Noted historian Carl J Richard argues that although we Westerners are all Greeks in politics science philosophy and literature and all Hebrews in morality and spirituality it was the Romans who made us Greeks and Hebrews As the author convincingly shows from the Middle Ages on most Westerners received Greek ideas from Roman sources Similarly when the Western world adopted the ethical monotheism of the Hebrews it did so at the instigation of a Roman citizen named Paul who took advantage of the peace unity stability and roads of the empire to proselytize the previously pagan Gentiles who quickly became a majority of the religion's adherents Although the Roman government of the first century crucified Christ and persecuted Christians Rome's fourth and fifth century leaders encouraged the spread of Christianity throughout the Western world In addition to making original contributions to administration law engineering and architecture the Romans modified and often improved the ideas they assimilated Without the Roman sense of social responsibility to temper the individualism of Hellenistic Greece classical culture might have perished and without the Roman masses to proselytize and the social and material conditions necessary to this evangelism Christianity itself might not have survived
