Boydston, 2013-08-26 Media attention can play a profound role in whether or not officials act on a policy issue but how policy issues make the news in the first place has remained a puzzle Why do some issues go viral and then just as quickly fall off the radar How is it that the media can sustain public interest for months in a complex story like negotiations over Obamacare while ignoring other important issues in favor of stories on balloon boy With Making the News Amber Boydston offers an eye opening look at the explosive patterns of media attention that determine which issues are brought before the public At the heart of her argument is the observation that the media have two modes an alarm mode for breaking stories and a patrol mode for covering them in greater depth While institutional incentives often initiate alarm mode around a story they also propel news outlets into the watchdog like patrol mode around its policy implications until the next big news item breaks What results from this pattern of fixation followed by rapid change is skewed coverage of policy issues with a few receiving the majority of media attention while others receive none at all Boydston documents this systemic explosiveness and skew through analysis of media coverage across policy issues including in depth looks at the waxing and waning of coverage around two issues capital punishment and the war on terror Making the News shows how the seemingly unpredictable day to day decisions of the newsroom produce distinct patterns of operation with implications good and bad for national politics Translation and interpreting as communication: Issues and perspectives Binhua Wang, Chonglong Gu, 2023-05-12 The Press Geneva Overholser, Kathleen Hall Jamieson, 2005 With the guidance of editors Geneva Overholser and Kathleen Hall Jamieson this superb collection of essays written by the nation s leading authorities on journalism illuminates the role of the press in a democracy investigating alternative models used throughout world history to better understand how the American press has evolved into what it is today The book also examines the history identity roles and future of the American press with an

Grimm,2019-04-10 This volume focuses on the evolution of public policy and the role of agenda setting with regard to policymaking in countries of the Global South The authors illustrate the emergence of public policy research as an academic discipline and highlight various aspects of history governance politics and economics as components of public policy theory development By offering a cross national perspective the papers contribute to a better understanding of when how and by whom a given policy agenda is designed which is essential to grasping how policy is implemented In turn the authors investigate how the development of public policy research has influenced policymaking in fields such as democratization migration corruption agriculture environment education and entrepreneurship and more specifically agenda setting in selected countries of the Global South Islamophobia in Non-Western Online Newspapers Isyaku Hassan,Mohd Nazri Latiff Azmi,2021-03-03 The media attention towards Islam has increased recently but meeting the quality standards in reporting the religion is often of great concern in this regard This issue has been debated since the aftermath of violent incidents such as the 9 11 attacks in 2001 the Afghanistan War in 2002 the Iraq War in 2003 the Danish cartoon row in 2005 the London bombings in 2005 the Paris attacks in 2015 and the New Zealand shootings in 2017 In reporting violence the media tend to construct a negative image of Islam which is likely to reproduce unfounded hostility toward Islam and Muslims known as Islamophobia This book provides a systematic analysis of how non western online newspapers reproduce Islamophobia in news reporting
