SEVEN METAPHYSICAL POETS

A STRUCTURAL STUDY OF THE UNCHANGING SELF

Seven Metaphysical Poets:

Seven Metaphysical Poets Robert Ellrodt, 2000 Robert Ellrodt's study of seven poets springing from his wide ranging three volume work Les Poètes métaphysiques anglais challenges the postmodernist assumption that no definite or constant self can be traced in the works of a writer. Distinct modes of self awareness, different emphases in the perception of time and space and various ways of grasping the sensible and the spiritual, the human and the divine jointly or separately characterize the minds of Donne and George Herbert, Crashaw and Vaughan, Lord Herbert Marvell and Traherne. Fundamental mental structures affect their attitudes to love, death and God and dictate their privileged modes of composition and expression. Without neglecting the relations between these individual traits and the general evolution of thought from classical antiquity to the Renaissance or the immediate cultural environment in which each poet wrote, this critical study maintains the primacy of individual choice of the unchanging self. The book is not based on a theory but on a close scrutiny of the characteristic interplay of personal modes of thought and sensibility.

Seven Metaphysical Poets Robert Ellrodt, 2000 This critical study of seven metaphysical poets challenges the postmodernist assumption that no definite or constant self can be traced in the works of a writer, maintaining the primacy of individual choice and the interplay of personal modes.

General Commentary Genre Language Versification and Style the Poet Persona and Themes The volume also offers a comprehensive digest of general and topical commentary on the Divine Poems from Donne's time through 2012 The Poetry of Immanence Robert Whalen, 2002-01-01 In this extensive study of two of the most celebrated seventeenth century religious poets Robert Whalen examines the role of sacrament in the formation of early modern religious subjectivity For John Donne and George Herbert sacramental topoi became powerful conceptual tools with which to explore both the intersection of spiritual and material aspects of human experience and their competing claims to Christianity Whalen's argument builds upon his central idea of sacramental Puritanism or the effort to cultivate a Calvinist sense of interiority through a fully ceremonial apparatus and thereby to reconcile the potentially disparate imperatives of sacrament and devotion Unique in its combination of current historiography and informed analysis its attention to the sacramental features of Donne's secular lyrics and its advancement of sacramental thought as an important element of Renaissance English culture The Poetry of Immanence illuminates a crucial dimension of the work of two major Stuart writers In his comprehensive critical readings Whalen offers a substantial contribution to the increasing study of religious themes and devotion in the literature of the early modern period Greening the Children of God Chad Michael Rimmer, 2021-01-01 Greening the Children of God uncovers the theological roots of the growing ethical imperative to reconnect children to their natural environment In their different traditions theologians environmental educators and psychologists all affirm that knowing their place in the natural environment helps a child develop an intersubjective ecological identity that nurtures virtues of mutuality and care During the Scientific Revolution this ethical harmony was threatened as science and moral theology began to adopt different epistemological methods something the Anglican priest and poet Thomas Traherne was all too aware of Traherne insisted that education should promote a child's attention to the moral dimensions woven into the tapestry of creation and professed that play wonder and a sensory relationship to diverse creatures play a pedagogical role in a child's moral formation Greening the Children of God establishes the contemporary significance of Traherne's moral theory in conversation with child psychologists educators philosophers and theologians who know that cultivating a place based relationship to the local ecology helps children perceive creation's deep mutuality and develop a moral identity in the image of a caring Creator Literature and the Encounter with God in Post-Reformation England Michael Martin, 2016-05-23 Each of the figures examined in this study John Dee John Donne Sir Kenelm Digby Henry and Thomas Vaughan and Jane Lead is concerned with the ways in which God can be approached or experienced Michael Martin analyzes the ways in which the encounter with God is figured among these early modern writers who inhabit the shared cultural space of poets and preachers mystics and scientists The three main themes that inform this study are Cura animarum the care of souls and the diminished role of spiritual direction in post Reformation religious life the rise of scientific rationality and the struggle against the disappearance of the Holy Arising from the methods and commitments of phenomenology the primary mode of inquiry of this study resides in contemplation not in a religious sense but in the realm of perception attendance and acceptance Martin portrays figures such as Dee Digby and Thomas Vaughan not as the eccentrics they are often depicted to have been but rather as participating in a religious mainstream that had been radically altered by the disappearance of any kind of mandatory or regular spiritual direction a problem which was further complicated and exacerbated by the rise of science Thus this study contributes to a reconfiguration of our notion of what religious orthodoxy really meant during the period and calls into question our own assumptions about what is or was orthodox and heterodox

Coming To Timothy M.

Harrison, 2020-10-10 In Coming To Timothy M Harrison uncovers the forgotten role of poetry in the history of the idea of consciousness Drawing our attention to a sea change in the English seventeenth century when over the course of a half century conscience made a sudden shift to consciousness he traces a line that leads from the philosophy of Ren Descartes to the poetry of John Milton from the prenatal memories of theologian Thomas Traherne to the unresolved perspective on natality consciousness and ethics in the philosophy of John Locke Each of these figures responded to the first person perspective by turning to the origins of how human thought began Taken together as Harrison shows this unlikely group of thinkers sheds new light on the emergence of the concept of consciousness and the significance of human natality to central questions in the fields of literature philosophy and the history of science topics John Donne's Physics Elizabeth D. Harvey, Timothy M. Harrison, 2024-05-10 With the anniversary of Donne's brilliant and difficult Devotions Upon Emergent Occasions coming up in 2024 Elizabeth Harvey and Timothy Harrison's John Donne's Physics is a timely study that provides fresh readings of the Devotions in relation to all of Donne's other writings. Previous scholarship has focused on Donne the cleric and the religious pastoral significance of his work and thought. Harvey and Harrison show us another side of the pastoral poet as a thinker immersed in the latest developments in science and medicine of the time and a participant in debates on natural philosophy and physics of his day. Rereading the Devotions alongside Donne's love poetry, satire, letters, and elegies, Harvey and Harrison shed new light on Donne on his experience of the 1623 typhus epidemic in London that inspired his writing of the Devotions and how we might think with Donne during our own pandemic times.

Andrew Marvell A. D. Cousins, 2016-03-02 This monograph studies how across the Folio of 1681 Marvell's poems engage not merely with different kinds of loss and aspiration but with experiences of both that were in mid-seventeenth century England disturbingly new and unfamiliar. It particularly examines Marvell's preoccupation with the search for home and with redefining the homeland in times of civil upheaval. In doing so, it traces his progression from being a poet who plays sophisticatedly with received myth to being one who is a national mythmaker in rivalry with his poetic contemporaries such as Waller and Davenant. Although focusing primarily on poems in the Folio of 1681, this book considers those poems in relation to others from the Marvell canon, including the Latin poems and the satires from the reign of Charles II. It closely considers them as well in relation to verse by poets from the classical past and the European, especially English, present.

Mythologies of Internal Exile in Elizabethan Verse A.D. Cousins, 2018-10-26 Writers of the English Renaissance like their European contemporaries frequently reflect on the phenomenon of exile, an experience that forces the individual to establish a new personal identity in an alien environment. Although there has been much commentary on this phenomenon as represented in English Renaissance literature, there has been nothing written at length about its counterpart, namely, internal exile, marginalization, or estrangement within the homeland. This volume considers internal exile as a simultaneously twofold experience. It studies estrangement from one's society and correlatively from one's normative sense of self. In doing so, it focuses initially on the sonnet sequences by Sidney Spenser and Shakespeare, which is to say the problematics of romance; then it examines the verse satires of Donne, Hall, and Marston, likewise the problematics of anti-romance. This book argues that the authors of these major texts create mythologies via the myths of and accumulated mythographies about Cupid, satyrs, and Proteus through which to reflect on the doubleness of exile within one's own community. These mythologies, at times accompanied by theologies of alienation, suggest that internal exile is a fluid and complex experience demanding multifarious reinterpretation of the incongruously expatriate self. The monograph thus establishes a new framework for understanding texts at once diverse yet central to the Elizabethan literary achievement.
