Designing Sustainable Prosperity Doris Hiam-Galvez, 2024-08-27. Tried and tested approach for transforming unsustainable economies that are based on natural resource extraction to create long-term prosperity. The process focuses on regional economies. Designing Sustainable Prosperity (DSP) is a step-by-step blueprint for transforming economies from being dependent on short-term natural resource extraction into long-term sustainable prosperity. The outcome is the creation of sustainable circular economies that prioritise waste reduction and use recycling and renewable resources to actively implement climate change solutions and where appropriate developing technical know-how. A key feature of the process is collaboration between local people, investors, appropriate experts, government, academics. The DSP method outlines seven steps in creating a plan for long-term sustainable regional development illustrated by several case studies from North and South America which identified potential economic transformations. Designing Sustainable Prosperity explores topics such as: How to determine if and when a region is ready for DSP by analyzing factors such as climate, geology, natural resources and human potential. Case studies highlighting different aspects of the DSP approach and how to achieve true prosperity which is beyond short-term financial performance. Hard resources and industries that can fuel a circular economy such as metals mining, water, energy, value-added food products and other innovative enterprises. Soft enabling factors such as workforce availability, educational systems and socio-economic conditions and how to develop these factors in line with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (UNSDGs). DSP shows how to align economic goals with sustainable development including all the UNSDGs. Designing Sustainable Prosperity is an essential and timely resource for professionals and organizations aiming to develop regions sustainably.

Developing Locally, Poverty and Shared Prosperity 2018 World Bank, 2018-12-20. The World Bank Group has two overarching goals: End extreme poverty by 2030 and promote shared prosperity by boosting the incomes of the bottom 40 percent of the population in each economy. As this year's Poverty and Shared Prosperity report documents, the world continues to make progress toward these goals. In 2015, approximately one-tenth of the world's population lived in extreme poverty and the incomes of the bottom 40 percent rose in 77 percent of economies studied. But success cannot be taken for granted. Poverty remains high in Sub-Saharan Africa as well as in fragile and conflict-affected states. At the same time, most of the world's poor now live in middle-income countries which tend to have higher national poverty lines. This year's report tracks poverty comparisons at two higher poverty thresholds: 3.20 and 5.50 per day, which are typical of standards in lower and upper middle-income countries. In addition, the report introduces a societal poverty line based on each economy's median income or consumption. Poverty and Shared Prosperity 2018. Piecing Together the Poverty Puzzle also recognizes that poverty is not only about income and consumption and it introduces a multidimensional poverty measure that adds other factors such as access to education, electricity, drinking water and sanitation It also explores how inequality within households could affect the global profile of the poor All these additional pieces enrich our understanding of the poverty puzzle bringing us closer to solving it For more information please visit worldbank.org PSP      Regional Development and Spatial Planning in an Enlarged European Union Neil
