Federal Register, 2012-05

Rome Convention - Rome I Regulation Alexander J. Belohlávek, 2011-01-01 As of 17 December 2010 the Rome I Regulation EU Regulation 593/2008 on the law applicable to contractual obligations is directly applicable in all EU Member States with the exception of Denmark The Rome I Regulation replaces the Rome Convention of 1980 in the EU Member States and will apply to all contracts concluded as of 17 December 2010 However and herein lies the utility and great importance of this work the Rome Convention and the Rome I Regulation will be applied in parallel for a significant time to come the author himself anticipates a ten to fifteen year period in the latter case to contracts made after 17 December 2010 This is why this commentary takes into account both sources of law in their mutual interaction and broader context The comprehensiveness of the Rome Convention Rome I Regulation is clearly apparent but one of the great achievements of the author is his amassing of over 1 800 judicial decisions most of which are furnished with a detailed commentary where these decisions apply national laws the latter are cited both in the original and in translation For a number of rulings the commentary include not only a case summary of the facts and an analysis of the conclusions drawn by the court but also takes them as models to hypothesize what conclusions would be reached if the Rome I Regulation were to be applied

Universal Service in WTO and EU law Olga Batura, 2015-10-07 This book is a systematic comparative study of WTO and EU law relevant for universal service provision and a timely contribution to the ongoing scholarly and policy debates about the concept and scope of universal service Universal service is one of the most significant regulatory issues worldwide and it is likely to remain so The central question dealt with by the author is how the technologically intensive sector of telecommunications services can be regulated in a socially fair way in the light of liberalisation and the immense importance of ICTs in the Information Society The author investigates whether the legal frameworks of WTO and EU can meet the challenges of the rapid and dramatic technological and social change and formulates relevant policy recommendations The book is of interest to both scholars and practitioners in several disciplines such as EU and WTO law telecommunications law and regulation political science regarding market regulation and governance as well as European integration and WTO Olga Batura is affiliated to the Leuphana Law School University of Lüneburg Germany and to the European Humanities University in Vilnius Lithuania The Political Economy of the Company John Parkinson, Gavin Kelly, Andrew Gamble, 2001-03-30 Theoretical writing on the company and company law has been dominated in recent years by economics This collection of essays by a distinguished team of authors drawn from a variety of disciplines seeks to build on the insights of this economic analysis and broaden understanding by examining the company in a wider historical legal political and sociological context Issues discussed include the attitudes of political parties in the UK to the company the rise of the non executive director institutional activism and stakeholder protection and the evolution of the nexus of contracts theory of the company There is also a strong comparative theme with discussions of the political and sociological context of corporate governance in France Germany and Japan together with developments at the European level

Regulating Tobacco, Alcohol and Unhealthy Foods Tania Voon, Andrew Mitchell, Jonathan Liberman, 2014-07-25 The need to reduce disability and premature deaths from non communicable diseases NCDs is increasingly engaging international organisations and national and sub national governments In this book experts from a range of backgrounds provide insights into the legal implications of regulating tobacco alcohol and unhealthy foods all of which are risk factors for NCDs As individual countries and the international community move to increase targeting of these risk factors affected industries are turning to national and international law to challenge the resulting regulations This book explores how the effective regulation of tobacco alcohol and unhealthy foods can be achieved within the context of international health law international trade and investment law international human rights law international intellectual property law and domestic laws on constitutional and other matters Its contributors consider the various tensions that arise in regulating NCD risk factors as well as offering an original analysis of the relationship between evidence and health regulation Covering a range of geographical areas including the Americas the European Union Africa and Oceania the book offers lessons for health and policy practitioners and scholars in navigating the complex legal fields in which the regulation of tobacco alcohol and unhealthy foods takes place Climate Change and Political Strategy Hugh Compston, 2013-09-13 Although the science of climate change is well established and there are well known policy instruments that could significantly reduce greenhouse gas GHG emissions without prohibitive economic costs political obstacles to more determined action remain despite heightened concern among mainstream politicians and the public This book analyses the political dynamics of climate policy in affluent democracies from a number of different theoretical angles in order to improve our understanding of which political strategies would be likely to enable national governments to make deep cuts in GHG emissions while avoiding significant political damage The authors argue that different conceptual and logical theories highlight different features of political situations Describing the politics of climate policy in this way will result in different conceptual logical views of this phenomenon And to some extent the inferences drawn from such differing views about the nature of political obstacles to more vigorous action on climate change and the best ways of overcoming them will also be different Singly and together these analyses reveal a more detailed nuanced view of the political options open to activist governments This book was previously published as a special issue of Environmental Politics

Innovative Infrastructure Financing through Value Capture in Indonesia Asian Development Bank,2021-05-01 Indonesia needs significant additional infrastructure investment to sustain its economic growth However the COVID 19 pandemic has further limited the fiscal space of the government This report proposes a new method to increase infrastructure investment based on the concept of value capture The report studies how Indonesia s existing policies and regulations can be used to build a value capture framework that ensures the maximization of the social economic and environmental value of infrastructure investments The framework focuses on strategies to deliver infrastructure projects that create greater value and at the same time generate funding for up front investment

Private Sector-Led Urban Development Projects Erwin Heurkens, 2012-09-04 Central to Private Sector led Urban Development Projects lays the concept of private sector led urban development projects Such projects involve project developers taking a leading role and local authorities adopting a facilitating role in managing the development of an urban area based on a clear public private role division Such a development strategy is quite common in Anglo Saxon urban development practices but is less known in Continental European practices Nonetheless since the beginning of the millennium such a development strategy also occurred in the Netherlands in the form of concessions However remarkably little empirical knowledge is available about how public and private actors collaborate on and manage private sector led urban development projects Moreover it remains unclear what the effects of such projects are This dissertation provides an understanding of the various characteristics of private sector led urban development projects by conducting empirical case study research in the institutional contexts of the Netherlands and the UK The book provides an answer to the following question What can we learn from private sector led urban development projects in the Netherlands and UK in terms of the collaborative and managerial roles of public and private actors and the effects of their inter actions The Governance of

Privacy Hans Bruijn, 2025-10-01 We can hardly underestimate the importance of privacy in our data driven world Privacy breaches are not just about disclosing information Personal data is used to profile and manipulate us sometimes on such a large scale that it affects society as a whole What can governments do to protect our privacy In The Governance of Privacy Hans de Bruijn first analyses the complexity of the governance challenge using the metaphor of a journey At the start users have strong incentives to share data Harvested data continue the journey that might lead to a privacy breach but not necessarily it can also lead to highly valued services That is why both preparedness at the start of the journey and resilience during the journey are crucial to privacy protection The book then explores three strategies to deal with governments the market and society Governments can use the power of the law they can exploit the power of the market by stimulating companies to compete on privacy and they can empower society strengthening its resilience in a data driven world
